Spring 2023

Dear Local Business Owner:

Cornell Cooperative Extension is a statewide network of non-profit Associations providing hands-on, research-based educational programs for farmers, families and youth to empower them to make a positive difference in their lives and communities. Our programs span every discipline from providing the latest research to assist our farmers with producing the best crops possible, offering financial budgeting assistance to families in need, teaching SNAP recipients how to best stretch their food dollar while eating healthier, to encouraging our youth through 4-H programs to be better citizens. You can view some of our programs on our website at www.PutKnowledgeToWork.org.

Cornell Cooperative Extension of Steuben County relies heavily on volunteers to extend the reach of staff as we work together to improve our community and helps its members thrive. This year, to thank and celebrate our invaluable volunteers and their dedication, we are hosting a celebratory dessert buffet April 21, 2023. Our evening program will be a drop-in open house format for volunteers to take time to network with each other, indulge in a dessert buffet, receive an appreciation gift and have a chance to be drawn for door prize all in the hopes that we can express our true appreciation.

Cornell Cooperative Extension of Steuben County is seeking donations to help this event be a success. We are seeking donations for door prizes as well as a variety of desserts for our dessert buffet. We would like to showcase as many local businesses as possible and are hoping you will consider donating.

Thank you for considering a donation to our volunteer appreciation event. You can contact me at mle75@cornell.edu or 607-664-2300 or 607-664-2577 with any questions and for further details about this event.

Sincerely,

Melissa Edwards
