Europe Conference Oslo 2027

Join us in May 2027, in Oslo, Norway, where Europe's urban future takes shape.

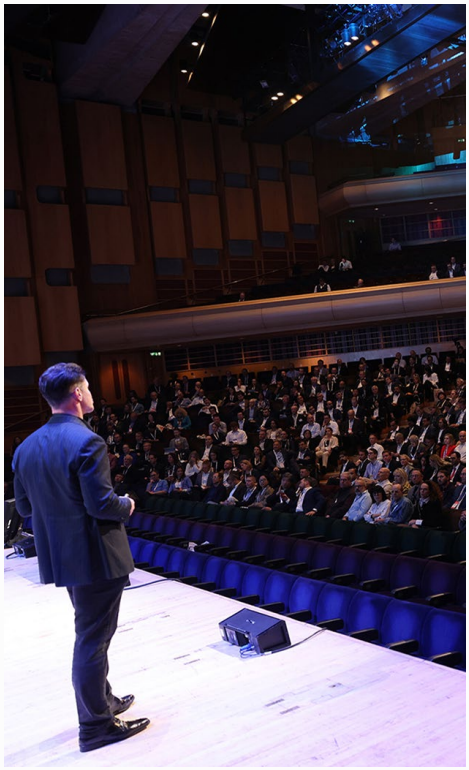

What we do

We shape the future of rising cities and share the knowledge to build them.

The Council on Vertical Urbanism (CVU) is the leading global authority on tall buildings and sustainable, resilient cities. We explore how responsible density, upward growth, and three-dimensional solutions can support more livable and healthier cities, especially in the face of rapid urbanization and the effects of climate change.

We unite members and experts, compile industry-driving data, conduct and disseminate original research, and drive and celebrate innovation to advance bold, urban solutions. Together, we are building tall better.

Oslo 2027

Europe Conference

Across Europe, cities are navigating the challenges of urban growth while working to preserve the qualities that make them distinctive. Increasing demand for housing, evolving economic needs, and ambitious environmental goals are reshaping how cities approach density, development, and long-term resilience.

The 2027 Europe Conference in Oslo will bring together industry leaders and experts to exchange knowledge, explore innovative approaches to vertical urbanism, and consider how responsible growth can support more sustainable, livable, and connected cities.

Host city

Oslo, Norway

Oslo's evolving waterfront reflects the city's approach to urban growth, where contemporary architecture, mixed-use development, and accessible public spaces are transforming former industrial areas into vibrant, connected urban districts.

As the city continues to grow, balancing increased density with sustainable development, mobility, and livability will be essential to shaping a more resilient, inclusive, and people-centered urban future.

Against this backdrop, the 2027 Europe Conference will bring together developers, architects, engineers, policymakers, and industry leaders to exchange ideas, share expertise, and explore the opportunities and challenges shaping Europe's cities. This regional event offers a platform for companies to connect with key decision-makers, strengthen industry relationships, and showcase their commitment to advancing responsible urban growth.

Program

Connecting the people shaping cities.

Professionals from all disciplines with a connection to and interest in tall buildings and urban habitat are encouraged to attend. Building owners, architects, developers, leaders in the construction industry, and experts associated with the technologies and psychology of making urban living sustainable and profitable.

Attendees can develop business leads and partnerships at the regional level while networking with top names in the industry. The conversations that happen here will enable you to influence best-practice thinking and policy making in your region.

This is the premier opportunity to gain insights into the latest thinking in future-proof solutions from the region's most distinguished experts in urban development, tall buildings and sustainability.

CVU leaders from around the region have the opportunity to gather for updates, idea exchange, and networking.

Off-site tours take place in buildings, urban spaces, and key developments throughout the city, where attendees learn about location-specific themes through engaging presentations and extensive tours of the sites by practicing professionals.
