3.6 A person working for the Title Sponsor of the Contest or for one of its Subsidiaries cannot submit their candidacy for the edition their employer serves for as Title Sponsor. Furthermore, a person working for an Enterprise sponsoring a category or the Jury prize, or working for one of its subsidiaries, cannot submit their candidacy for this exact category or the Jury prize for the edition in question.

3.7 A person cannot submit their candidacy for more than one (1) category.

3.9 The JCCM organizing committee or board of directors reserves the right to reject any candidacy on the grounds that the candidate finds themselves in a situation of real or perceived conflict of interest.

3.10 To be eligible for registration, each candidate must consent to the JCCM investigating their personal record or their Enterprise's activities in order to validate the information submitted by the candidate. For this purpose, the candidate must therefore consent to the use of personal information.

3.11 Upon the organizing committee's request, the finalist must provide an original copy or a certified true copy of documents attesting the authenticity of diplomas, distinctions and other mentioned achievements. Otherwise, the organizing committee reserves the right to reject their candidacy.

IV. REGISTRATION AND REFERENCE MODALITIES

4.1 Any person complying with the requirements set out in section III can submit their candidacy by returning to the JCCM the application form available on the website of the Contest (www.arista.jccm.org), on such forms and in such manner as the JCCM prescribed. The duly completed application form, along with the supporting documents, must be forwarded to the JCCM on or prior to the last day of the application period, which is publicly disclosed by the JCCM. The closing date of applications can be postponed by the JCCM at its sole discretion.

4.2 Any person can propose a potential candidate via a “reference form”, completed on such forms and in such manner as the JCCM prescribed and forwarded to the JCCM fifteen (15) working days prior to the closing date of applications, at the latest.

V. EVALUATION OF CANDIDATES AND SELECTION OF FINALISTS

5.1 Following an appeal to JCCM members made through the means deemed the most appropriate by the JCCM, and following a call for applications made by the organizing committee and at the sole discretion of the JCCM, several pre-selection committees are formed in order to proceed with the evaluation of candidates in all categories. Each committee consists of at least five (5) members designated by the organizing committee according to requested profiles. The application submission to serve on a pre-selection committee does not guarantee a seat on one of the committees. In each pre-selection committee, a member is chosen as moderator of this committee by the organizing committee.

5.2 To preserve the JCCM's independence and the integrity of the selection process, the organizing committee's members of the Contest cannot exercise voting rights and may only attend as observers during meetings of one or more pre-selection committees.

5.3 Pre-selection committees must ensure compliance with the eligibility requirements set out herein, and the eligibility of the candidate within the category they submit their candidacy to. In case the information provided by a candidate leads the pre-selection committee to conclude the ineligibility of the candidate within the category, the pre-selection committee can, with the consent of the project manager for ARISTA recruitment and the candidate, transfer the candidacy in the appropriate category or, with the consent of the head of the Contest committee or their representative, it can reject the candidacy.

5.4 For all ten (10) categories, the pre-selection committees evaluate the candidate on the basis of the information provided in the application form and the supporting documents using the following criteria:

- their leadership;
- their achievements;
- their vision and perseverance
- their spirit of innovation
- their level of involvement.

5.5 Using an evaluation grid previously established by the organizing committee, each member of the pre-selection committee assigns a mark to the candidate in accordance with the criteria set out herein.

5.6 Candidates' files, including the evaluation grids filled out by the members of the pre-selection committee, are handed to the organizing committee on grounds of confidentiality.

5.7 Evaluation grids support the pre-selection committees' reasoning. As a tool, the grids help to clarify the candidates' profiles and select the finalists of each category, if necessary.

5.8 There cannot be more than three (3) finalists per category. In the event of a tie during the vote carried out in conformity with clause 5.6 set out herein, the head of the Contest committee casts an additional vote in order to select a maximum of three (3) candidates.

5.9 Following the selection of the finalists, all candidates' files, including the evaluation grids, are handed to the General Management of the JCCM.

5.10 For each candidate who granted their consent, the JCCM will investigate their personal record or their Enterprise's activities in order to validate the information provided by the candidate. Any false or misleading statement or situation that could tarnish the reputation of the Contest and the JCCM in any way may result in the automatic disqualification of the candidate, and this at the sole discretion of the JCCM.

VI. EVALUATION OF FINALISTS AND SELECTION OF LAUREATES

6.1 The organizing committee forms a jury in charge of selecting the laureate in each of the ten (10) categories. This jury consists of at least five (5) members designated by the organizing committee. A member of a pre-selection committee cannot serve on the jury during the same edition. A member of the jury is designated president by their peers.

6.2 Each finalist has to be interviewed by the jury at the time and place specified by the organizing committee. Three (3) members constitute the quorum required for those interviews. A finalist who cannot meet with the jury is considered withdrawn from the Contest.

6.3 The jury evaluates each finalist on the basis of their interview, their application form and the supporting documents, and the information collected through an investigation conducted in conformity with clause 5.10, set out herein.

6.4 Using the evaluation grid previously established by the organizing committee, each jury member assigns a mark to the finalist in accordance with the criteria set out herein.

6.5 Finalists' files, including the evaluation grids filled out by the jury members, are handed to the organizing committee on grounds of confidentiality.

6.6 Evaluation grids support the jury's reasoning. As a tool, the grids help to clarify the candidates' profiles and select the finalists of each category, if necessary.

6.7 There cannot be more than one (1) laureate by category. In the event of a tie during the vote carried out in conformity with clause 6.6 set out herein, the president of the jury can cast an additional vote in order to select only one (1) laureate.

6.8 Following the selection of laureates, all finalists' files, including the evaluation grids, are immediately handed to the General Management of the JCCM.

VII. ANNOUNCEMENT OF LAUREATES

The laureates will be revealed during the ARISTA Gala of the Contest's current edition.

VIII. CONFIDENTIALITY

8.1 Members of the organizing committee, of the pre-selection committees, of the jury and any other person who has examined any document about a candidate must respect the confidentiality of the information they obtained, either verbal or written, in the course of the Contest.

8.2 The candidates' files, including finalists and laureates, and all the material used during the deliberation will be destroyed following the ARISTA Gala, and therefore, impossible for candidates to consult.

IX. GENERALITIES

9.1 Any decision that has been voted on by a pre-selection committee or the jury and that has found favour with more than fifty percent (50%) of members eligible to vote is presumed to be duly adopted by this committee or the jury, as the case may be. In the event of a tie during the vote carried out by a pre-selection committee or the jury, the head of the Contest committee and the president of the jury will cast additional votes, as the case may be. Any decision adopted by a pre-selection committee or the jury is final and without appeal.

9.2 Any member of a pre-selection committee or of the jury must disclose any actual or potential conflict of interest with a candidate. In any case, this member may not in any way participate in the evaluation of this candidate or in a decision that could affect this candidate. Therefore, only the marks assigned by other members of one or several pre-selection committees or the jury are considered in evaluating the candidate.

9.3 Pre-selection committees or the jury can reject any candidacy on the grounds that the information provided in the application form or the supporting documents is false or misleading according to the pre-selection committee or the jury.

9.4 Except during the official interview as part of the Contest, at no time can candidates promote their candidacy to members of the pre-selection committees or the jury.

9.5 Members of the jury cannot communicate directly with a candidate, except where the current regulations permit.

9.6 The current regulations can only be modified by a resolution of the JCCM board of directors. To lighten the text of the present document, the singular "they" and its inflective forms have been used as gender-neutral pronouns.

Annex V: Reputation risk management policy

A - Disclosure obligation

Via the application form, the candidate must disclose any personal information or any information about the Enterprise they own, administrate or manage that could tarnish the reputation of the Competition, the organizers, the candidates and the laureates, such as:

- having been involved in legal proceedings, other than traffic violations, that could lead to charges, conviction or the granting of an injunction;
- having been convicted of a criminal offense for which they did not obtain pardon;
- having been ordered by the civil court to pay damages, in a case related to their field of activity;
- having been adjudicated a bankrupt or having made an assignment for property in favour of creditors and not obtaining discharge from bankruptcy;
- having been sanctioned and/or struck off by a professional order, a regulatory authority or a professional association.

B - Identification, evaluation and decision-making

1. The organizing committee (hereinafter "the committee") respects the following risk management policy:

1.1 In cases the candidate discloses having been convicted of a criminal offense for which they did not obtain pardon, having been adjudicated a bankrupt or having made an assignment for property in favour of creditors or having been sanctioned and/or struck off by a professional order, a regulatory authority or a professional association, the organizing committee automatically rejects their candidacy without any recommendation to the executive committee.

1.2 Afterwards, the committee identifies candidacies presenting a risk (candidates disclosing a reputational risk in the provided field of the application form).

1.3 The committee evaluates the candidacies presenting a risk:

1.3.1 The committee contacts the candidate and obtains the information deemed necessary for decision-making, as required.

1.3.2 The committee evaluates if the candidates may pose an actual risk to the notoriety, the image, the prestige and the reputation of the Contest, and to the organizers, the candidates and the laureates.

1.3.3 In case the risk level justifies a potential recommendation for rejection, the committee meets the candidate to obtain additional information, as required.

1.3.4 In case rejection is recommended and/or unanimity cannot be reached, the organizing committee prepares and submits an executive summary to the executive committee, including:

- the risk factors related to the candidacy;
- the justified recommendation of the organizing committee.

2. If so, the executive committee decides if the candidacy must be rejected.

3. In case of rejection, the organizing committee informs the candidate in writing and as soon as possible of the reasons behind the rejection of their candidacy.
