Style Spotlight: Chloé Caillet

DJ, producer, multi-instrumentalist and creative director Chloé Caillet chats vintage shopping in the US, fusing fashion from the '70s and '90s, and designer Dapper Dan

GROWING UP between New York, Paris and the UK, it's easy to see why Chloé Caillet is a chameleon between the worlds of music and fashion. At just seven years old, Caillet began learning piano, before moving into bands at the age of 14 playing guitar and bass. A year later, while living in Paris, she discovered labels like Ed Banger Records, before moving to Bristol where she found the wobble of dubstep, drum & bass, and most importantly, house music.

With that passion for dance sounds embedded, Caillet eventually began working as an A&R for Universal Music Group — where she is now a creative director — and became a key player in New York's vibrant nightlife scene. Organising private events and booking DJs, Caillet bought her first pair of CDs and taught herself to mix like the artists she'd been watching and booking for the Big Apple's nightclubs.

In more recent years, Caillet has soundtracked some of the world's biggest fashion events around the globe for the likes of M&M&U, spinning a signature selection of Afrobeat, funk, disco, soul, house and techno. She's also played sets at festivals and clubs such as Badaboum, Brooklyn Mirage, for her residency at Dior's Transmoderna party at Pacha, Glastonbury, Timewarp, H, Ushuaia and Pless. Moving into 2022, and holding firm her mantra of playing and releasing sounds that "light and make people dance", Caillet has more releases planned for her label, XCESS Records, as well as a gig alongside Jennifer Gardin, Gerd Janson, Paramida and Curses at London's Fabric on the 12th February. Ahead of another stacked year, Caillet sat down with DJ Mag to speak about vintage shopping, a decade-spanning love of vintage

Chloe Caillet (@chloecaillet) presenta "Love Ain't Over Remixes"

¿Qué aprendiste de esos trabajos más en la sombra? ¿Te sirvió de algo en tu faceta de dj y productora?

Realmente aprendí sobre la cantidad de personas y los distintos roles que se necesitan para hacer realidad un proyecto. Siento un gran respeto por todas las personas que trabajan entre bastidores. Sin su equipo, la mayoría de los artistas no tendrían carrera.

En el campo de la electrónica no existen muchas mujeres que se dediquen a la producción, ¿por qué crees que sigue ocurriendo y qué harías para cambiarlo?

Creo que a menudo las mujeres no han sido vistas en igualdad de condiciones que los hombres. La gente suele dejarnos en un segundo plano y no piensa en nosotras en primer lugar cuando se trata de contratar a gente para trabajos de producción. Estoy viendo un lento cambio, ya que cada vez más mujeres productoras están en primera línea y por fin se les da una plataforma para ser vistas y escuchadas. Pero todavía estamos muy lejos de la igualdad en esto. Me encantaría ver en los créditos el mismo número de nombres de mujeres que de hombres :).
