BIOGRAPHY

DXNBY is a Leeds-based DJ and producer whose distinct sound blends deep tech, garage, and house to create a dynamic and immersive club experience. Originally from Doncaster, DXNBY has built a reputation for his meticulous production and forward-thinking approach to underground dance music.

His recent releases, such as "Places & Faces" on Sidney Charles' Heavy House Society and the club sensation "Bumpin'" on Eastenderz, have garnered attention from industry heavyweights including Michael Bibi, Max Dean, Jamie Jones and many more. His tracks on labels like neXup recz and META continue to showcase his ability to merge minimal house with garage influences, maintaining his unique edge while appealing to diverse dancefloors. The DXFiles release series has become a key part of his catalogue, representing significant moments in his musical journey.

DXNBY's live performances have earned him a strong presence in key European venues. His sets at Warehouse Project, fabric, Studio 338, Eden Ibiza, and Cova Santa for Eastenderz have solidified his reputation as a sought-after DJ. Additionally, his international reach includes performances across Italy, Spain, and the Netherlands, as well as at high-profile clubs like Pacha and Amnesia Ibiza.

With a growing global presence and a sound that bridges the best of deep tech, garage and house, DXNBY is pushing boundaries while staying true to the underground. Whether it's through his sharp productions or standout sets, he's carving out his place as one of the UK's most exciting dance music artists to watch.
