ABOUT THE DESIGNER:

Identia Design

Our sign design approach is simple, refined, and restrained. Our design goals are to balance aesthetics with cost and functionality. While signage is highly visible, and integral to the safe and effective operation of your building, we believe that signage should be subordinated to other architectural priorities and not compete with the architecture in which the signs are installed.

CONSTRUCTION

The Crestone sign family from Identia includes tactile and non-tactile plaques, and extruded aluminum plaques with removable paper inserts, which are adhered to a single, recessed backer plate. Plaque assemblies are mounted flush to architectural surfaces with high-strength double sided foam tape, or flag mounted with aluminum brackets. Background colors are spray applied to the front surface of all Identia components with a durable acrylic polyurethane paint. Non-tactile graphics are reproduced with direct to substrate digital printing, and standard tactile graphics and Braille for the Crestone family utilize Novacrly photopolymer. Tactile Identia plaques are also available with appliqué letters and Braille rasters as an option. Please consult with your Park Place customer service representative to determine the best fabrication method for your project.
