EKU's Recanati Highlights 2024 Academic All-ASUN Team

Sha Carter, FGCU
4.00 GPA | Criminal Justice

FGCU's Seventh ASUN Women's Basketball Scholar-Athlete of the Year

ATLANTA- EKU's Alice Recanati was tabbed the Atlantic Sun Conference Women's Basketball Scholar-Athlete of the Year, announced Thursday by the league office. Recanati is joined by eight other Women's Basketball student-athletes on the Academic All-ASUN Team.

Recanati, who earned her third Academic All-ASUN selection, owns a 3.91 GPA as she pursues her Bachelor of Science in Chemistry with a concentration in Biochemistry. She is the first Women's Basketball Scholar-Athlete of the Year from EKU. The Bergamo, Italy native, ranks first in the conference in assists this season with 4.4 per game. She has played and started all 31 contests this season and averages 10.4 points a game while grabbing 4.0 rebounds per contest while collecting 52 steals.

The Academic All-ASUN Team recognizes student-athletes who excel both on the court and in the classroom and exemplify the ASUN's mission of Building Winners for Life. All the members of the team boast a 3.50 cumulative grade point average or better and participated in at least half of their team's games.

BY THE NUMBERS

1

FGCU's Emani Jefferson made league history as the first individual to be named the ASUN Player, Defensive Player and Newcomer of the Year.

7

The number of teams who qualified for the ASUN Championship with a .500-or-better record in league play. With the conference at 12 squads and 16 league games in 2023-24, all but three teams in the event are at 8-8 or better within conference action.

23

The total number of consecutive victories earned by the top four seeds in the postseason, FGCU, Stetson, Central Arkansas and Lipscomb. The Eagles enter the ASUN Championship at 26-4 and have been victorious 19-straight times, while the Hatters have notched wins in back-to-back contests. The Bisons and Sugar Bears both picked up wins to close out the regular-season.

84

North Alabama's Alexis Callins has hit a total of 84 three-pointers this season, topping the league in three-point field goal percentage (.361) and three-pointers per game (2.9).
