Nes-Ziona, Israel, May 28, 2026 (GLOBE NEWSWIRE) -- Enlivex Ltd. (Nasdaq: ENLV, "Enlivex" or the "Company"), a quality longevity company powered by a prediction markets treasury, today provided an update on its RAIN token holdings. As of May 27, 2026, the Company held 79,568,550,005 RAIN tokens with a total value of approximately $1.16 billion.

Separately, the Rain Foundation, the administrative body overseeing the Rain protocol, recently announced the appointment of five industry leaders to its advisory board. The new appointments include Stefan Rust, former Chief Executive Officer of Bitcoin.com and a prominent entrepreneur in the blockchain industry; Dennis Liu, known as Virtual Bacon, a crypto analyst and content creator specializing in technical analysis and investment research; Route2FI, a financial writer and crypto influencer known for in-depth analysis of decentralized finance strategies and macroeconomic trends; David Airey, Chief Operating Officer of Crypto Banter, a major live-streaming media platform focused on digital asset markets; and Danny Frishman, a veteran technology entrepreneur with an extensive track record in blockchain and digital innovation.

According to the Rain Foundation, the Rain protocol has achieved significant traction since launching its open beta, with more than 29,000 users and more than 100 million RAIN tokens burned through its buyback-and-burn mechanism, as of April 27, 2026. On May 27, 2026, the Rain Foundation announced a $100 million liquidity commitment to Rain's prediction markets protocol. The increased liquidity currently positions Rain as the third-largest prediction market protocol globally by Total Value Locked (TVL). Polymarket leads the prediction market category with approximately $450 million in TVL¹, and Rain's $100 million liquidity commitment positions the protocol as the third-largest globally, alongside the category leaders.

Oren Hershkovitz, Ph.D., CEO of Enlivex, commented, "Our updated treasury position reflects Enlivex's strategic commitment to the prediction markets sector. We believe that the continued progress of the Rain protocol ecosystem, including the current jump into the 3rd place in the leading prediction markets league table with approximately $100MM in TVL¹, compared with approximately $450MM for Polymarket, supports our long-term view of RAIN as a core treasury asset."
