

For just six glorious hours, he didn't feel endangered at all. Our Cargo Team ensure that we're equipped for our most demanding passengers. Orangutans are on the edge of extinction in the wild, and this young male needed highly-specialised care on his recent journey home. At least he was friendlier than last year's leopard. To Fly. To Serve.

Orangutans are one of the smartest species on the planet. But these highly social, tool-using primate brainboxes, face a shrinking habitat and dwindling population.