

Morgan Stanley

“Morgan Stanley is proud to sponsor this exhibition, which underscores the Barnes Foundation's positive contributions to the arts culture of Philadelphia,” said Joan Steinberg, Head of Community Affairs at Morgan Stanley and President of the Morgan Stanley Foundation. “Our support reflects Morgan Stanley's commitment to making a positive contribution to society and to the communities in which our 60,000 employees live and work, with the goal of strengthening the next generation of citizens.”

About Morgan Stanley

Morgan Stanley has earned a worldwide reputation for the excellence of its advice and execution in financial markets. With more than 1,300 offices in 43 countries, the firm is truly global — and a market leader in the U.S., Europe and Asia as well as in emerging markets. Morgan Stanley's success rests on the talents and passion of our people, who share a common set of values and bring excellence and integrity to everything they do. We seek to grow long-term relationships by virtue of our consistently rigorous thinking and the unsurpassed access to financial markets that Morgan Stanley can bring. This means providing leadership in specific areas such as investment banking, debt and equity underwriting, research, and sales and trading. We also focus increasingly on creating custom-tailored solutions that cut across functions to help our clients realize new opportunities and solve complex problems. Our aim is to be the first choice of everyone who deals in financial markets, whether as prospective clients, employees or investors.
