COMMISSION ON RELIGION AND RACE

New Church. New Reality. New Conversations.

Join us for the
“Just In Time” Prayer & Reflection for Justice & Peace

This service is a part of the Conversation About Race Series. “Just in Time” indicates that the session is being convened as an immediate response to a recent event. In this case, it is the Ferguson, Mo grand jury finding of no indictment of Officer Darren Wilson for the shooting and killing of an unarmed teenager, Michael Brown. This session is designed to be informational, educational and inspirational, as we examine the situation in Ferguson; as well as, the bigger context of race, religion and American law. The Conversation About Race was initiated in 2013, by the Greater New Jersey Commission on Religion and Race as a safe forum for clergy and laity to discuss issues of race, ethnicity and culture, as well as gain tools to equip participants to build bridges for full and equal participation of racial and ethnic people in the total life of the United Methodist Church.
