OKLAHOMA STATE WINS BIG 12 MEN'S GOLF CHAMPIONSHIP

Trinity, Texas - Oklahoma State carded a three-round total of four-over-par 868 to win the 2005 Big 12 Men's Golf Championship by nine strokes over Oklahoma at Whispering Pines Golf Club.

The Cowboys led every round of the tournament en route to their fourth Big 12 title, first since 2000, and 49th conference title overall.

Oklahoma scored a 13-over 877 for second while Missouri finished third at 21-over 885. The top three teams remained the same through every round of the tournament.

Oklahoma's Anthony Kim captured medalist honors with an eight-under 208 after finishing as runner-up at the 2004 Big 12 Championship. OSU's Alex Noren finished second at two-under 214 followed by his teammate Zack Robinson in third place with a one-under 215. No one else finished the tournament under par.

"I thought I played well and kept my head in the game," said Kim. "I had to change my game a little bit because I like to hit the driver and you couldn't do that on every hole on this course."
