CONFERENCE MEDAL OF HONOR WINNERS

One of the most prestigious conference awards in college athletics, the Big Ten Medal of Honor was first awarded in 1915 to one student from the graduating class of each university who had "attained the greatest proficiency in athletics and scholastic work."

The 14 institutions of the Big Ten Conference feature almost 9,500 students competing in intercollegiate athletics and only 28 of those individuals will be recognized each year with the Big Ten Medal of Honor. In the 104 years of the Big Ten Medal of Honor, more than 1,400 students have earned this distinction.

The Big Ten Medal of Honor was the first award in intercollegiate athletics to demonstrate support for the educational emphasis placed on athletics. It was acclaimed throughout the nation, and in particular by the NCAA "as one of the significant gestures yet made in college sports." The Big Ten Medal of Honor was expanded in 1982 to include one female student from each institution. In 2014, the conference celebrated the 100th anniversary of this prestigious award.

POSTGRADUATE SCHOLARSHIP RECIPIENTS

Beginning with the 2012-2013 academic year, the conference instituted the annual Big Ten Postgraduate Scholarship, which awards $15,000 to each institution. Each Big Ten institution developed its own on-campus selection process when awarding the scholarship. Students must have maintained at least a 3.2 grade-point-average, demonstrated leadership qualities, served as an excellent role model and intended to continue their academic work beyond their baccalaureate degree at a graduate degree program. The scholarship is used to pay expenses of the student's postgraduate education to include such related activities as research and teaching, as well as other expenses such as tuition, fees, room and board, required course-related supplies and books. In order to retain the scholarship, the recipient must be accepted into a full-time graduate degree program within three years from the fall semester after selection.

BIG TEN ATHLETE OF THE YEAR AWARDS

Big Ten Directors of Athletics approved a recommendation of the sports information directors to establish a Big Ten Athlete of the Year beginning in 1982. Indiana track performer Jim Spivey was the initial award winner. In 1983, the Directors of Athletics approved a separate athlete of the year award for women's athletics. The Big Ten Athletes of the Year are selected by a panel of conference media members from nominations submitted by each institution.

ACADEMIC ALL-BIG TEN AT-LARGE TEAM

The Big Ten established an Academic All-Big Ten at-large team in 1984 to honor those student-athletes outside the sports of football, basketball and baseball that are letterwinners in at least their second academic year at their institution and carry a cumulative grade-point average (GPA) of 3.0 or higher. Beginning in 1986-87, the Conference selected separate Academic All-Big Ten teams for each Conference sport. That information is shown in each sport section of this book.

CHRONOLOGY SECTION

January 11 – President James H. Smart of Purdue University called a meeting of the presidents of seven midwestern universities at Chicago for purpose of considering regulation and control of intercollegiate athletics. At this meeting, organization for control of athletics was blueprinted, consisting of an appointed faculty representative from each institution.

January 11 – Voted to restrict eligibility for athletics to bonafide, full-time students who were not delinquent in their studies.

February 8 – One faculty representative from each of seven institutions met at Palmer House, Chicago, Ill., to establish standards and machinery for regulation and administration of intercollegiate athletics. They designated themselves as the "Intercollegiate Conference of Faculty Representatives." The organization eventually was labeled popularly the "Big Ten" or "Western Conference" although the original title remained the official name until the Conference was incorporated in 1987. Original use of the word "Conference" has been applied to any group of institutions for similar purposes. The seven original members of the Conference were:

UNIVERSITY OF CHICAGO
UNIVERSITY OF ILLINOIS
UNIVERSITY OF MICHIGAN
UNIVERSITY OF MINNESOTA
NORTHWESTERN UNIVERSITY
PURDUE UNIVERSITY
UNIVERSITY OF WISCONSIN

Note: Lake Forest College was at the 1895 meeting but was replaced by Michigan in the 1896 sessions.

1897

November 26 – Voted to require a year's residence after changing institutions.

Chicago	1,345	Northwestern	317
Illinois	746	Purdue	569
Michigan	2,081	Wisconsin	1,229
Minnesota	1,813

1898

November 25 – Presidents' committee devised and printed set of football rules for Conference teams in contrast to rules used by Eastern institutions. (Later it was decided to use the Eastern rules.)

1899

December 1 – There were admitted to membership:

INDIANA UNIVERSITY
STATE UNIVERSITY OF IOWA

1900

November 30 – H.S. White of Northwestern presented legislation providing that any university may object to new legislation if objection is made within 30 days after legislation was passed, otherwise the Conference action would be binding on all members. (The following year this time limit was raised to 60 days and final action on the subject specified that these days must be during school session.) This legislative procedure has since been known as the WHITE RESOLUTION.

1901

June 1 – First Conference Outdoor Track meet held at University of Chicago.

November 29 – Voted "to limit preliminary football practice to two weeks immediately preceding the opening of college."

1904

November 25 – Conference pioneered residence rule requiring that a student, to be eligible to participate in intercollegiate sports, must first complete a full semester's work in residence. No such rule had been enacted before; it was termed a radical departure in college athletics.

1905

May 13 – The Intercollegiate Conference Athletic Association (ICAA) was incorporated under the laws of Illinois "to promote public interest in track and field athletics and other forms of amateur sports, to maintain a high standard of amateurism in athletics and to conduct and manage athletic contests, exhibitions and meets in furtherance of the purpose above named." Members of the corporation are the institutions making up the Conference. Meets in indoor and outdoor track and field, gymnastics, swimming and wrestling, a cross country run and tournaments in fencing, golf and tennis held under the auspices of the Conference are conducted by this corporation. Operating the corporation were graduate directors representing each member institution.

1906

March 9 – Meeting held this date commonly called "Angell Conference" since it was called by President A.A. Angell of Michigan. The following farsighted regulations for participation in, and control of, intercollegiate athletics were agreed upon and adopted the following day:

1. One year of residence necessary for eligibility. This rule also required the meeting of all entrance requirements and completion of a full year's work.
2. Only three years of competition allowed and no graduate student to be eligible.
3. Football season limited to five games.
4. No training table or training quarters permitted.
5. Student and faculty tickets not to cost over fifty cents.

1959

May 22 – Joint Group affirmed adoption of a new recruiting regulation, permitting a university to pay travel expenses for a prospect’s campus visit. By a 5-5 vote the Faculty Representatives failed to authorize negotiations for a revival of the Inter-Conference agreement on Rose Bowl participation, but by the same division failed to repeal the standing provision which exempts the Rose Bowl from the prohibition on postseason contests, thus making acceptance of a bid for participation in that event a matter of individual option.

December 10-11 – Basketball officials' fees raised to $100; summer competition rule revised to permit limited basketball play.

1960

March 3-5 – Junior college graduates made immediately eligible upon enrollment in a Conference university; rejected a proposal that the Conference contract with the Athletic Association of Western Universities for participation in the Rose Bowl.

December 8-10 – Duties and responsibilities of the Commissioner redefined by the Joint Group and enforcement procedures revised to give the Athletic Directors new responsibilities, with the Commissioner, for the determination of violations and the imposition of penalties.

May 18-20 – Indiana University was restored to good standing in the Conference, by vote of the Faculty Representatives upon recommendation of the Commissioner.

July 1 – Kenneth L. (Tug) Wilson retired as Commissioner after 16 years of service (1945-1961) and, pursuant to his election by the Council of Ten on April 24, 1961, William R. Reed became the third Conference Commissioner, John Dewey named Assistant to the Commissioner and Kay Fred Schultz became Service Bureau Director.

December 7-8 – The Faculty Representatives enacted new financial aid rules, eliminating the "need principle" and installing a requirement of predicted college success on the basis of high school rank and aptitude tests, and strengthened the "normal progress" requirements of the eligibility rules. The Joint Group authorized a contract for Rose Bowl participation with the Athletic Association of Western Universities (AAWU).

July 1 – The Conference offices were moved to the Sheraton-Chicago Hotel.

Armstrong, retiring University of Minnesota Athletic Director, as Supervisor of Conference Football Officials and as the Commissioner's special representative in Rose Bowl liaison.

December 8 – Big Ten Sports Information Directors established the "Robert C. Woodworth Award" to honor the long-time Purdue publicitor, who died April 4, 1964. Recipients are members of press, radio and/or television who have made meritorious contributions in the interest of Big Ten and intercollegiate athletics. Awards made at such time the individual left active coverage.

Under amended Regulation, institutions authorized to permit use of their facilities for events such as golf and tennis exhibitions.

For the 2004 season, the Big Ten's experimental instant replay system will allow for specific types of officiating mistakes to be immediately reviewed and corrected during all Conference games. Replay may be available during home non-conference match-ups with prior approval by the visiting team. However, the replay system will not guarantee that all officiating mistakes are identified and corrected. The Big Ten instant replay model and the National Football League (NFL) instant replay system are different. In the Big Ten model, only the Big Ten Technical Advisor, working in the press box, can stop a game to review a play. Unlike the NFL model, in the Big Ten neither the coaches nor the game officials on the field may ask for a review. In order for a play to be changed the Technical Advisor must have indisputable video evidence that an error occurred. Television broadcast of the game will be the sole source of whether there is indisputable video evidence. The types of plays that will be reviewable include plays that are governed by the sideline, goal line, end zone and end line, passing plays, and other detectable infractions, such as forward progress with respect to first down.

The Legends Division is a respectful acknowledgement of the numerous Heisman Trophy winners and College Football Hall of Famers that have graced Big Ten fields and sidelines for the previous 115 years. The Leaders Division is a hopeful and aspirational acknowledgment that the conference believes the college athletics experience helps to develop the characteristics that Big Ten student-athletes will need to become leaders for the rest of their lives - in their homes, jobs and in their communities.

The Big Ten also announced plans to debut an enhanced football awards program at the conclusion of the 2011 season to honor teams, coaches and student-athletes at conference institutions. Accordingly, the COP/C directed the conference to initiate an immediate review of the fundamental issues and systems affecting intercollegiate athletics, including the serious issues relating to the institutional control of athletics. It intended for this review to lead to the consideration of a common set of "stress tests" or other criteria that could be applied by the conference to its member institutions (a) to ensure that each member is responsible and accountable to the collective membership of the conference for the control and operation of its intercollegiate athletics programs as well as (b) to prevent anyone, whether a trustee, administrator, faculty member, athletic director, coach, booster or otherwise, from eroding the effectiveness of an institution's practices and procedures designed to protect the institution's integrity and control over its intercollegiate athletic programs. The COP/C intended for the review to be completed and for the proposed standards, stress tests and other criteria, along with the proposed enforcement procedures and penalties, to be presented to it for consideration at a special meeting in spring 2012.

Each year, the game will be played January 1 at 5 p.m. ET/2 p.m. PT (or on January 2 in years when January 1 is a Sunday) and will feature the champions from the Big Ten and Pac-12. Further, following a thorough review of the Freeh Report, the COP/C voted to impose the following additional sanctions on Penn State, effective immediately:

- (1) For failures committed at the highest level of the institution, the COP/C condemned the conduct and officially censured Penn State.
- (2) The Big Ten will be a party to the Athletic Integrity Agreement referenced by the NCAA, and will work closely with the NCAA and Penn State to ensure complete compliance with its provisions over the five-year term of the agreement.
- (3) Penn State will be ineligible for Big Ten Championship Games for four years, a period of time that runs concurrently with the NCAA postseason bowl ban.
- (4) Penn State will be ineligible to receive its share of Big Ten bowl revenues over those same four years. That money, estimated to be approximately $13 million, will be donated to established charitable organizations in Big Ten communities dedicated to the protection of children.

As a result of the conference review of issues and systems affecting intercollegiate athletics initiated in December of 2011, the COP/C recognized that what occurred at Penn State was a consequence of the concentration of power that can result from a successful athletic program and the failure of institutional leadership to maintain institutional control. The COP/C further recognized its own responsibility to ensure, within the context of its own institutions, sufficient control and responsibility over athletic programs. The conference review led to a document entitled Standards and Procedures for Safeguarding Institutional Control of Intercollegiate Athletics that was not final, but on schedule to be adopted by the COP/C and implemented in the 2012/13 academic year under the auspices and oversight of the COP/C.

The Standards reflect the agreement by all member institutions as to what must be achieved if institutions are to maintain appropriate oversight and control of the operation of intercollegiate athletic programs. In accordance with the Conference Standards, each institution has developed its own Institutional Standards, which establish that the president or chancellor has ultimate authority, responsibility, and accountability for the administration of athletics, and that the president or chancellor has delegated authority, responsibility, and accountability for the administration of the athletics department to the athletics director. The purpose of the Conference Standards and related Institutional Standards is to ensure not just that institutions have in place policies to protect certain areas of operation from undue or inappropriate influence, but that the policies are followed. Under the Conference Standards, institutions will annually report on the effectiveness of their respective standards as well as report instances in which those standards are violated. From an enforcement perspective, the Conference Standards do provide for the possibility of formal action if an institution were to persistently fail to comply with the Conference Standards. Absent persistent failure, however, the interaction between the conference office and each institution in the event of noncompliance will be collaborative with the goal of improving compliance. The specific operational areas covered by the Conference Standards are as follows: academic support, compliance, admissions, student discipline, medical and athletic training services and financial aid. In each of these areas, Institutional Standards are designed to prevent coaches from either having direct responsibility for staff in any of the areas, or from inappropriately influencing staff in any of the areas.
