

Alloy Development Holdings, LLC

Disclosure Report

Date Submitted: January 12th, 2024

Disclosure Materials

Certified B Corporations must complete a Disclosure Questionnaire to identify potentially sensitive issues related to the company (e.g. historical fines, sanctions, material litigation, or sensitive industry practices).

This component does not affect the company's score on the B Impact Assessment. If the company answers affirmatively to any items in the Disclosure Questionnaire that B Lab deems relevant for public stakeholders, then, as a condition of their certification, the company must:

- 1) Be transparent about details of the disclosure issues identified on the company's public B Impact Report
- 2) Describe how the company has addressed this issue
- 3) Demonstrate that management practices are in place to avoid similar issues from arising in the future, when necessary.

In all cases, the Standards Advisory council reserves the right to refuse certification if the company is ultimately deemed not to uphold the spirit and integrity of the community.

In addition to the voluntary indication of sensitive issues in the Disclosure Questionnaire, companies pursuing Certification also are subject to a background check by B Lab staff. Background checks include a review of public records, news sources, and search engines for company names, brands, executives/founders, and other relevant topics.

Sensitive issues identified through background checks may or may not be within the scope of questions in the Disclosure Questionnaire, but undergo the same review process and are subject to the same possible review by the Standards Advisory Council, including ineligibility for B Corp Certification, required remediation, or disclosure.

Topic	Litigation related to Labor Issues
Summary of Issue	Construction Injury Claims by Subcontractors — The Alloy Development Holdings companies have had 2 cases related to alleged workman's compensation claims made by former workers of subcontracted construction companies hired to carry out an Alloy Development Holdings' project. Both cases are still pending. Case 1 (2022): Alleged Bodily Injury Workers Compensation Claim by subcontractor employee. The former construction worker claims they were injured by a falling object during the course of construction of an Alloy Development Holdings' project and is seeking recovery for pain, suffering, medical expenses and lost earnings. Alloy insurance received the claim and tendered an acceptance letter. The plaintiff has not established the amount of the claim and it remains under investigation. Case 2: (2023): Alleged Bodily Injury Workers Compensation Claim by subcontractor employee. The former construction worker claims they fell down a set of wet/icy stairs and was injured during the course of construction and is seeking recovery for pain, suffering, medical expenses and lost earnings. Alloy insurance received the claim and tendered an acceptance letter. The plaintiff has not established the amount of the claim and it remains under investigation.
Size/Scope of Issue (e.g. $ financial implication, # of individuals affected)	The estimated claims would represent more than > 5% of the company's FY2023 revenue.
Impact on Stakeholders	Employees of subcontractors
Resolution	Both cases are still pending resolution and have a remote likelihood to lose. On site safety managers, safety orientations, safety training and job site culture improvements continue to improve worker safety.

Management Practices	In response to the litigation issues, the company has implemented several measures to improve safety on job sites. These include the appointment of on-site safety managers, conducting safety orientations, providing safety training, and efforts to improve the job site culture. These actions are part of the company's ongoing commitment to worker safety and aim to prevent similar incidents in the future.
Management Comments	Despite the commonality of job site injuries in the construction industry, the company takes each incident seriously while maintaining a notably high safety record. The company aims for a culture of care, evidenced by low injury rates in terms of both frequency and severity. Effective safety practices have even served as a model for NYC Department of Buildings' training. With the support of insurers, the company provides comprehensive safety training to its teams. All claims are addressed through General Liability or Workers' Compensation, underlining the company's commitment to its workforce's safety and well-being.
