

DISCLOSURE MATERIALS

Certified B Corporations must complete a Disclosure Questionnaire to identify potentially sensitive issues related to the company (e.g. historical fines, sanctions, material litigation, or sensitive industry practices).

This component does not affect the company's score on the B Impact Assessment. If the company answers affirmatively to any items in the Disclosure Questionnaire and B Lab deems them to be material, the company must:

- 1) Be transparent about the disclosure issues identified on the company's public B Impact Report
- 2) Describe how the company has addressed this issue.
- 3) Demonstrate that management systems are in place to avoid similar issues from arising in the future.

In all cases, the Standards Advisory council reserves the right to refuse certification if the company is ultimately deemed not to uphold the spirit of the community.

In addition to the voluntary indication of sensitive issues in the Disclosure Questionnaire, companies pursuing Certification also are subject to background checks by B Lab staff. Background checks include a review of public records, news sources, and search engines for company names, brands, executives/founders, and other relevant topics.

Sensitive issues identified through background checks may or may not be within the scope of questions in the Disclosure Questionnaire, but undergo the same review process and are subject to the same possible review by the Standards Advisory Council, including ineligibility for B Corp Certification, required remediation, or disclosure.

This document contains a copy of the company's completed Disclosure Questionnaire and related disclosure documentation provided by the company.

| ISSUE DATE | July 2022 |
| TOPIC | Recalls due to trace amounts of ethylene oxide (ETO) detected in the food product. |
| SUMMARY OF ISSUE | Camps Food has had three recalls in the last five years due to trace levels of ETO found in one of the ingridient within the food product. • Recall: Vanilla icecream_7-7-2022 The food product's manufacturer informed the company on their decision to proceed with a recall of its Plain Vanilla ice-cream products. Trace amounts of ethylene oxide (ETO) were detected in two batches of the finished products. Thorough investigations undertaken by their manufacturer into the root cause of this result indicate that trace levels of ETO can be sourced to one ingredient (vanilla extract) provided by one of the suppliers. Camps Food proceeded with the recall message according to their internal product recall policy. • Recall: Vanilla extended 1-8-2022 The manufacturer of the food product informed Camps Food that they have extended the scope of the Vanilla icecream product recall from 7-7-2022 to a specific batch of vanilla-based flavors. This extended action was being taken after further enhanced product testing identified the presence of 2-Chloroethanol (2CE) in a specific batch of vanilla-based flavors. 2CE has been associated with the presence of ETO. Camps Food proceeded with this recall according to its product recall policy. • Recall: Mini Joys Collection 12-9-2022 The company's manufacturer further added the Multipack SKUs in to the scope of the above two recalls. |
| | Multipack SKUs were not identified on the trace sent during the first 2 recalls. T Camps Food has proceed with this recall according to their internal product recall policy. |
| SIZE/SCOPE OF ISSUE (e.g. $ financial implication, # of individuals affected) | In total, 0.7% of the total companies sales units were affected by the recall |
| IMPACT ON STAKEHOLDERS | There were no reported illnesses due to the consumption of the food products. |
| | Camps Food conducted a track & tracing of the concerning batches and informed NVWA (Dutch Food authority). After consultation, the NVWA confirmed that for the Dutch market the products must be publicly recalled. After receiving approval of NVWA on the press release; company informed their accounts accordingly. |
| | Consuming products with residues of ethylene oxide may not pose severe health risk. However a long-term consumption on a frequent basis and in larger quantities can possibly cause harmful health effects.
