

The Myers-Briggs Company

Disclosure Report Date Submitted: June 10th, 2025

© B Lab 2023

Disclosure Materials

Certified B Corporations must complete a Disclosure Questionnaire to identify potentially sensitive issues related to the company (e.g. historical fines, sanctions, material litigation, or sensitive industry practices).

This component does not affect the company's score on the B Impact Assessment. If the company answers affirmatively to any items in the Disclosure Questionnaire that B Lab deems relevant for public stakeholders, then, as a condition of their certification, the company must:

- Be transparent about details of the disclosure issues identified on the company's public B Impact Report
- 2) Describe how the company has addressed this issue
- 3) Demonstrate that management practices are in place to avoid similar issues from arising in the future, when necessary.

In all cases, the Standards Advisory council reserves the right to refuse certification if the company is ultimately deemed not to uphold the spirit and integrity of the community.

In addition to the voluntary indication of sensitive issues in the Disclosure Questionnaire, companies pursuing Certification also are subject to a background check by B Lab staff. Background checks include a review of public records, news sources, and search engines for company names, brands, executives/founders, and other relevant topics.

Sensitive issues identified through background checks may or may not be within the scope of questions in the Disclosure Questionnaire, but undergo the same review process and are subject to the same possible review by the Standards Advisory Council, including ineligibility for B Corp Certification, required remediation, or disclosure.

The Myers-Briggs Company experienced significant layoffs of more than 20% of the workforce within the last five years. Certified B Corps are required to make transparent when such practices have occurred.

Disclosure Questionnaire Statement

Disclosure Questionnaire Category: Other - Clients in Controversial Industries

Topic	Clients in Controversial Industries
Summary of Issue	The Myers-Briggs Company is a consulting firm providing solutions, trainings and tools related to business Psychology.
	The company has clients in the industries involving Alcohol, Bottled water companies, Defense and/or Offensive Firearms, & Weapons, For-profit higher education, Genetically Modified Organisms (GMO), Marketing of breastmilk substitutes (BMS), Nuclear Power/Hazardous Materials, Pharmaceuticals, Tax Advisory Services, Tobacco, Water utilities, Whole life insurance products , zoos, aquariums & animal parks which are deemed controversial by B Lab.
	The services given to these clients relate to providing them with psychometric assessments and assessment qualification training.
	The same services and tools provided to the clients can be sold to clients in different industries, including other non-controversial and controversial industries.
Size/Scope of Issue (e.g. $ financial implication, # of individuals affected)	In the fiscal year of 2023, the company had generated less than 1% of total revenue from each of the client industries that are considered controversial.
Impact on Stakeholder(s)	Companies that work with clients in controversial industries can indirectly increase the harmful impact on stakeholders of those businesses by enabling their business growth. Therefore, companies that work with clients in these industries should have practices in place to ensure that their impact is aimed at decreasing the negative impacts of the industry.
	Currently, B Lab does not have specific requirements for companies with clients in this/these industries. However, Certified B Corps are required to make transparent their involvement with such clients. As B Lab continues to evolve its standards and due diligence approach for companies with Clients in Controversial Industries, the updated criteria will be shared with the company once they are finalized. B Lab recognizes that the company began its verification process prior to B Lab developing standards for Clients in Controversial Industries, and, therefore, the company will be required to meet the new standards by their next recertification. Additionally, as of the date of this disclosure, the company has committed to not working with any new companies or projects involved in the controversial industries in question. Implemented Myers-Briggs currently does not have a formal position on Management Practices working with sensitive industries or a policy to move away from them. The company has a policy which targets the operations, rather than the industry. The company conducts its due-diligence through a combination of its Ethics Policy and Business Terms & Conditions with clients which require compliance with laws and regulations, and periodic review of customers and their activities to ensure no illegal or unethical conduct has taken place.
