

DISCLOSURE MATERIALS

Certified B Corporations must complete a Disclosure Questionnaire to identify potentially sensitive issues related to the company (e.g. historical fines, sanctions, material litigation, or sensitive industry practices).

This component does not affect the company's score on the B Impact Assessment. If the company answers affirmatively to any items in the Disclosure Questionnaire and B Lab deems them to be material, the company must:

- 1) Be transparent about the disclosure issues identified on the company's public B Impact Report
- 2) Describe how the company has addressed this issue.
- 3) Demonstrate that management systems are in place to avoid similar issues from arising in the future.

In all cases, the Standards Advisory council reserves the right to refuse certification if the company is ultimately deemed not to uphold the spirit of the community.

In addition to the voluntary indication of sensitive issues in the Disclosure Questionnaire, companies pursuing Certification also are subject to background checks by B Lab staff. Background checks include a review of public records, news sources, and search engines for company names, brands, executives/founders, and other relevant topics.

Sensitive issues identified through background checks may or may not be within the scope of questions in the Disclosure Questionnaire, but undergo the same review process and are subject to the same possible review by the Standards Advisory Council, including ineligibility for B Corp Certification, required remediation, or disclosure.

This document contains a copy of the company's completed Disclosure Questionnaire and related disclosure documentation provided by the company.

B Corp Certification - Disclosure Questionnaire Documentation

PROVIDED BY: MegaFood (Foodstate) UPDATED AS OF: June 9th, 2022

DISCLOSURE QUESTIONNAIRE CATEGORY	Litigation, Arbitration, and/or Penalties
ISSUE DATE	2017-2018
TOPIC	Class action lawsuit based on allegations of false advertising
SUMMARY OF ISSUE	In 2017, a putative class action was filed against Foodstate based on allegations that FoodState engaged in false advertising. Foodstate denied and continues to deny that it engaged in false or misleading advertising. The parties settled the matter in 2018.
SIZE/SCOPE OF ISSUE (e.g. $ financial implication, # of individuals affected)	The case was settled for an amount that was less than 3% of the company's revenue.
IMPACT ON STAKEHOLDERS	No additional stakeholders were affected to the company's knowledge.
RESOLUTION	The parties settled the matter with FoodState paying the agreed upon settlement sum.
IMPLEMENTED MGT PRACTICES	FoodState, Inc. dba MegaFood's claims principles are: 1.) Do the Right Thing. This means putting the consumer first. 2.) The company does not violate the law and monitors FDA, FTC, States and other regulatory bodies to ensure that they are following all applicable requirements. 3.) The company always evaluates whether there is litigation risk and considers not only the financial cost, but also possible damage to the Brand reputation. All claims are evaluated against these three principles. No claim will be approved for use unless it is adequately substantiated by qualified experts. MegaFood has a Nutrition Science team of two PhDs and four Regulatory professionals with more than 75 years of combined technical expertise. Claims, marketing and labeling are reviewed, approved and managed from substantiation to execution in a cloud-based system that is our single source of truth with end to end traceability - from formula to advertisement.
