Disclosure Report

Date Submitted: May 25th, 2026

Disclosure Materials

Certified B Corporations must complete a Disclosure Questionnaire to identify potentially sensitive issues related to the company (e.g. historical fines, sanctions, material litigation, or sensitive industry practices).

This component does not affect the company's score on the B Impact Assessment. If the company answers affirmatively to any items in the Disclosure Questionnaire that B Lab deems relevant for public stakeholders, then, as a condition of their certification, the company must:

- 1) Be transparent about details of the disclosure issues identified on the company's public B Impact Report
- 2) Describe how the company has addressed this issue
- 3) Demonstrate that management practices are in place to avoid similar issues from arising in the future, when necessary.

In all cases, the Standards Advisory council reserves the right to refuse certification if the company is ultimately deemed not to uphold the spirit and integrity of the community.

In addition to the voluntary indication of sensitive issues in the Disclosure Questionnaire, companies pursuing Certification also are subject to a background check by B Lab staff. Background checks include a review of public records, news sources, and search engines for company names, brands, executives/founders, and other relevant topics.

Sensitive issues identified through background checks may or may not be within the scope of questions in the Disclosure Questionnaire, but undergo the same review process and are subject to the same possible review by the Standards Advisory Council, including ineligibility for B Corp Certification, required remediation, or disclosure.

Disclosure Questionnaire Statement

Disclosure Questionnaire Category: Animal Testing

Topic	The company tests their supplemental products for efficacy at a third party testing facility.
Summary of Issue	Lintbells outsources and engages the third parties to conduct efficacy studies on selected products. These studies are undertaken to substantiate product claims and demonstrate product performance. For example, studies may evaluate the effectiveness of joint health supplements in supporting mobility, comfort and quality of life outcomes in animals. The purpose of this research is to generate robust scientific evidence supporting the efficacy of the products.
Size/Scope of Issue (e.g. $ financial implication, # of individuals affected)	Based on a SKU-by-SKU review weighted by forecast 2026 gross sales value, we estimate that approximately 99% of products (by annual revenue) have undergone some form of animal testing (e.g. palatability and/or efficacy testing) at some point during their development process.
Impact on Stakeholder(s)	Animal testing and experimentation is widely used to develop and to test the safety of new agricultural products, pet products or other products. Many of these experiments could potentially cause pain to the animals involved or in some cases reduce their quality of life in other ways.
Implemented Management Practices	Both Lintbells and Massey University anchor their animal testing practices in the 3Rs framework — Replacement, Reduction, and Refinement. Vetnique commits to using only non- or minimally-invasive methods, pursuing animal studies only where in vitro alternatives are insufficient, and involving the minimum number of animals necessary. Massey University enforces the same principles through its Animal Ethics Committee (AEC), which must approve all research before it commences and grades every study by ethical cost, with stricter scrutiny applied to higher-impact work. Oversight and governance are robust on both sides. Lintbells requires all third-party research partners — including outsourced labs like Massey — to meet its welfare standards through contractual obligations, and reserves the right to audit compliance. Massey's AEC, comprising at least 11 members including independent external representatives, conducts both scheduled and unscheduled monitoring visits, mandates adverse event reporting, and can suspend or revoke approvals at any time.

Together, the two organisations form a layered system of accountability. Lintbells sets the ethical standards and contractual requirements at the company level, while Massey's AEC provides independent institutional governance on the ground. Both require formal ethical approval before any testing begins, prohibit studies that cause unnecessary harm or pain, and maintain transparent records — with Massey reporting animal use statistics annually to New Zealand's Ministry for Primary Industries.
