Description of Positive Environmental Product / Service Impact

How would you describe the positive outcome for the environment created by your product/service?

We are using an historically underutilized resource (Shells and heads from prawns) to make ingredients for food/feed, and to make a high value peptide concentrate with clinically documented blood pressure lowering attributes. Since the prawn shells, which represents 50% of the total prawn, has historically been seen as a waste-product, we are significantly reducing the environmental footprint of shrimp-production industry while simultaneously helping to solve one of the biggest health issues in the western world (high blood pressure).

Resource Conservation Overview

Tell us more about how your product or service reduces energy, GHG emissions, water and/or waste.

Marealis uses an underutilized resource/waste-product in shells and heads from the prawn. This way we utilize 100% of the catch in the prawn industry. Marealis' existence and function is utilizing 100% of the by-product generated by owner and supplier Stella Polaris (shrimp industry). The company comply with Norwegian general standards in water and energy usage. In Norway we have fresh and clean water and access to water is not very limited. The energy used is 100% green energy, and in production we seek to use as little energy and water as possible due to environmental, but also due to cost efficiency reasons.
