Geographic Structure and Scope

We realize that for companies with more than one office, the definition of local involvement is a more complicated one to answer. Please tell us a bit about the structure of your company geographically.

Our company operates from two key locations, each serving distinct functions that contribute to the overall running of our business. Our main office and operations base is located in Granton. This site houses our private tours and transport departments and serves as the central hub for logistical planning and coordination. It also functions as our yard, where our fleet of buses is stored and maintained. Our second location is our shop on the Royal Mile, which plays a multifaceted role. It serves as a check-in point for customers, a hub for face-to-face and email-based customer service, and a source of tourist information. Additionally, this location facilitates attraction ticket sales, helping visitors make the most of their time in Edinburgh. Both locations work together to provide a seamless experience for our customers, each contributing to different aspects of our operations and local engagement.

Education Product/Service Overview

Please tell us more about how your product or service promotes education or professional development and advancement.

Our tours promote education by delivering rich, experience-based learning through expert-led guiding, storytelling, and direct engagement with Scotland's landscapes, history, and cultural heritage. Customers gain a deeper understanding of historical events, local traditions, and regional identities through visits to significant sites and continuous interpretation throughout the journey. Our guides play a central role in this by adapting content to different audiences, encouraging questions, and presenting information in an engaging and accessible way. This approach supports informal learning, cultural awareness, and personal enrichment. In addition, our tour guides foster discussion and interaction, allowing customers to learn not only from the guide but also from fellow travellers. While the primary focus is on cultural and historical education rather than formal professional training, the experience contributes to broader personal development by enhancing knowledge, perspective, and global awareness.
