Level of Impact Focus

Describe your company's approach to creating positive impact.

This is an unweighted question that will not impact your score and is asked only for research/benchmarking purposes.

- Creating positive social or environmental impact is not a focus for our business
- We occasionally think about the social and environmental impact of some aspects of our business, but not frequently.
- We frequently consider our social and environmental impact, but it isn't a high priority in decision-making.
- We consistently incorporate social and environmental impact into decision-making because we consider it important to the success and profitability of our business.
- We treat our social and environmental impact as a primary measure of success for our business and prioritize it even in cases where it may not drive profitability.

Mission Statement

Please share the text of your formal mission statement here.

Our Vision & Foundation City Cycle Club was born out of a desire to solve a problem faced by many cyclists around London, founded by two passionate riders with a shared vision: creating a place where cyclists could park their bikes securely and conveniently, refresh themselves before going about their day. Our Commitment & Purpose Our purpose extends beyond excellent service. We are fundamentally committed to conserving the environment and promoting community well-being. Our most significant positive environmental impact stems from our primary service: secure bike parking and cyclist amenities. By encouraging people to cycle to work rather than drive, we facilitate zero carbon footprint commuting for our members, directly reducing urban congestion and greenhouse gas emissions. We further achieve sustainability by committing to the specific positive environmental impact of extending the lifespan of cycling equipment, reducing waste sent to landfills through expert repair, responsible refurbishment, and the utilization of circular economy practices in our service operations.
