Innovative Land/wildlife Conservation Points Earned: of 0.00000

Is there something different or innovative about the product/service that has changed the industry? Is this something that is replicable, unique at the time that it was created, and that has been emulated by other organizations?

Some fish (especially tuna) are overfished and are threatened by extinction. Additionally, the methods of capturing are not always friendly to the environment, and destroy the seabeds and natural habitat of the marine life in the area. Using certified seafood ensures that fish are caught in a sustainable manner, as to avoid supporting these unsustainable practices. It is easily replicated, but it results in higher costs why many actors in the industry chose not to emulate this practise.

Toxin Reduction / Remediation

Toxin / Pollution Reduction Overview Points Earned: of 0.00000

Tell us more about how your product or service reduces use of toxic or hazardous substances, prevents pollution or remediates discharges to air, land or water

Our rice is organic, eliminating the use of pesticides and thereby the pollution of the soil with toxins that eventually reach the ground water. It is also upland grown, which results in over 50% reduction in carbon emissions compared to conventionally grown rice, this is however off-set by the crop being organic, which results in approx. 20% higher emissions due to the lower yield per m2 compared to conventional rice - but has the benefit of the aforementioned reduction in toxins and nitrogen emission.

Is there something different or innovative about the company's basic product or service that has changed the industry? Is this something that is replicable, unique at the time that it was created, and that has been emulated by other organizations?

We are the first Scandinavian sushi restaurant to use organic & upland grown rice, which studies have shown lead to 20% lower emissions than conventional rice production. Additionally, the organic crops do not use pesticides, herbicides and use organic fertiliser leading to a lower nitrogen emission and avoiding contaminating the soil and ground water with poisons. The practise is replicable, but results in a higher costs, why other actors have not emulated this practice.
