INVEST IN YOURSELF
Paying for College

Students who invest in their future at Mason become part of one of the Top 50 public colleges in the nation and study with world-renowned faculty who lead the way in their respective fields. Mason’s campus offers the best of a large university atmosphere—20 NCAA Division I teams, more than 460 student groups, and daily activities and events—yet carries the feeling of a small school where every student can make a difference.

Scholarships for Entering Students

Both one-time and four-year awards are granted by the Office of Admissions to eligible admitted students. Eligibility can be based on a number of factors, including GPA, standardized testing (if applicable), and degree program. Students who apply by the November 1 deadline will be considered for merit scholarships (applicable to freshmen only).

More than 60% of Mason students receive financial aid.

Grants

Mason participates in multiple need-based federal and state-funded grant programs that can assist first-year and transfer students. Grants are awarded based on demonstrated need as determined by your FAFSA. They do not have to be repaid, and require satisfactory academic progress in order to be renewed.

• Federal Pell Grants
• Federal Supplementary Educational Opportunity Grant

Outside Scholarships

Scholarships are available through a wide array of local, state, and national awards that reduce the cost of attendance. Our guidance to students is to apply early and seek as many scholarships as possible.

The Institutional Aid Grant

This grant is based on your demonstrated level of need, which is determined after your FAFSA is filed each year. Students must also meet the following conditions:

• Demonstrate financial need as determined by the FAFSA
• Maintain Satisfactory Academic Progress Standards
• Maintain out-of-state residency

Get Ahead with an Accelerated Master’s Program

Whether you plan to teach or simply know the direction your career is headed, you can earn two degrees in five years through accelerated graduate studies. Applicants get their graduate application fee waived, and admitted students may obtain both a bachelor’s and a master’s degree after satisfactory completion of 144 to 159 credits, depending on the program.

Invest in Your Future

The more you learn, the more you earn. Based on data from the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics*, college graduates earn $26,000 more per year than high school graduates. That’s almost $780,000 over a 30-year career. Higher education carries lifelong benefits.

Plus, 83 percent of Mason graduates start working immediately in positions directly related to their career goals. Mason graduates have a significant impact on the business communities of Northern Virginia and Washington, D.C., as 92 percent of all graduates obtain jobs in Virginia, Maryland, and Washington, D.C.

Federal Work Study

Flexible part-time jobs, either on Mason’s campus or with university partners, can help with the expense of college and build experience that aligns with your future career goals. Need-based aid is made available to students who have submitted the required FAFSA. Students can attend resume workshops hosted by University Career Services, and they must apply and interview for positions that are part of the work-study program. Students without federal work study can also find on-campus employment. However, jobs are limited and should be sought as early as possible.

Earning potential varies and work is capped at 20 hours per week while classes are in session and 29 hours during breaks. Students can use paychecks for tuition, fees, room and board or day-to-day living expenses.
