Pinot Noir may be the toughest grape to grow, but the effort is well worth the investment. When it comes to Pinot Noir the price typically reflects the investment, with higher prices running the gamut for solid Pinot Noir from reputable vineyards and producers. However, with a little effort, it's possible to scout out some good, value-driven Pinot Noir in the under $15 price range. Below we've highlighted consistent producers that make Pinot Noir accessible to all based on price, distribution and overall value. Pinot Noir remains one of the most food-friendly red wine grapes, versatile for completing a wide variety of foods and flavors, light enough to woo "non-red wine" drinkers, and priced from $6-50+, willing and ready to fit every budget. You might notice that vintage years have been omitted with these Pinot Noir recommendations. We've decided to focus on producers that strive for consistent quality Pinot Noir year after year, with an eye on entry-level, budget-friendly wines.

3. Bouchard Aine & Fils Bourgogne Pinot Noir 2012 \(FR\) \$13

Looking for a bargain from Burgundy? Then look no further than this Bouchard Aine & Fils red Burgundy find. Made exclusively from Pinot Noir grapes, this particular wine offers up some unexpected floral notes along with bright red berry fruit, with a keen focus on Bing cherry. Balanced acidity, earthy undertones, understated oak influences and a lighter body, with subtle tannin structure make this a top pick for value wines from the famed Burgundy region. Versatile and food-friendly, give this red a whirl with everything from roasted game to poultry and smoked salmon. More »

DeLoach.

7. DeLoach Heritage Reserve Pinot Noir 2012 \(CA\) \$15

The DeLoach Heritage Pinot Noir is a remarkable value wine, a medium-bodied red wine with cherry cola and strawberry jam in the palate mix. This wine is well balanced, well priced and well-distributed - making it a perfect wine for a wide range of occasions. More »
