

DRINKHACKER

THE ESSENTIAL SITE FOR THE DISCRIMINATING DRINKER

Tasting Report: Pinot Days 2017

👤 Christopher Null 📅 December 4, 2017 💬 0 Comments

It's been a few years since we visited Pinot Days, to see what American — primarily Californian — wineries are doing with this most beloved of grapes. The answer: Well, they're still making pinot noir, and, based on this crop of primarily 2014 and 2015 vintage wines, they're doing an awfully good job of it.

While this show, in a somewhat smaller venue, was unfortunately a bit rushed, thoughts on all wines tasted follow.

Tasting Report: Pinot Days 2017

2014 DeLoach Vineyards Pinot Noir OFS – solid, but dark, with lots of acid / A-
2014 DeLoach Vineyards Pinot Noir Estate – similar, more structured / A-