

JCB No. 39 Chardonnay Cremant de Bourgogne Sparkling Wine

CATHERINE BUGUE catbugue@gmail.com Updated Apr 12, 2016 0

This is a wine for a love story. Behind the label, behind the number 39 is this tale: "The year was 1939. Germany had just invaded Poland, and France was rallying its troops to come to the aid of their ally. While this world of chaos was unraveling, a young couple had fallen in love. They married the day before he set out to serve his country. After three adventurous years, he returned home to the loving arms of his wife and a 3-year-old daughter that he was meeting for the first time. The couple is the grandparents of Jean-Charles Boisset." (jcbwines.com)

As Jean-Charles Boisset, the passionate spirit behind wine properties in California and Burgundy, shares his story through this wine ($75), I imagine it being shared with new couples as they create their own.

Full of lively bubbles, this refreshing and fruity French sparkler would fit right in at a wedding dinner. Or any occasion for good bubbles.
