Hosted at the Palace Hotel in downtown San Francisco on February 12, the 45th Annual San Francisco Wine Auction, hosted by the Guardsmen, raised funds to benefit at-risk youths in the Bay Area. The guest of honor was Napa's own Jean-Charles Boisset, who was recognized for his positive impact, influence, and service to the wine industry. The festivities included a silent and live auction containing bounties of luxury wine, spirits, and travel packages, a walk-around wine tasting from more than 30 premium Bay Area wineries, and a seated dinner, followed by dancing and an after-party. The San Francisco Wine Auction is the largest and longest running charity event in San Francisco. Founded in 1947, The Guardsmen is a volunteer group of men mobilized to enhance and improve the lives of at-risk youth. // www.sfwineauction.guardsmen.org
