Chloe Grace Moretz, Zoey Deutch, Glen Powell to Be Honored at Napa Valley Film Festival

Maria Cavassuto AUGUST 25, 2016

Chloe Grace Moretz, Zoey Deutch, and Glen Powell will be feted during the sixth annual Napa Valley Film Festival on Nov. 10. More honorees will be announced in September.

As part of the celebrity tributes, Zoey Deutch of the upcoming "Why Him? and this year's "Everybody Wants Some" will be honored along with her "Everybody Wants Some" co-star Glen Powell as the Domaine Chandon Rising Stars. Chloe Grace Moretz, who starred in "Neighbors 2: Sorority Rising" and "The Equalizer," will be nab the Raymond Vineyards Trailblazer Tribute.

"We are thrilled to share our hospitality, food, wine, and our appreciative film-loving audiences with these fantastic actors," said NVFF co-founder and director Brenda Lhormer. "Chloe was an easy choice as our Trailblazer. She impresses us with the risks she takes and her positive maverick mentality. Zoey and Glen are on their way to greatness and epitomize Rising Stars. We look forward to hosting them throughout their stay at the festival."

Past NVFF honorees include Kevin Costner, Alan Cumming, Bruce Dern, Colin Farrell, Judy Greer, John Lee Hancock, Felicity Jones, Jeremy Jordan, Zoe Kazan, Keegan-Michael Key, James Marsden, Michelle Monaghan, Evan Peters, Miles Teller, John Travolta, and Jeffrey Wright.

The NVFF is held in the towns of Napa, Yountville, St. Helena, and Calistoga. This year's Napa Valley Film Festival will take place from Nov. 9 to Nov. 13.
