The furniture includes several curved, brown leather armchairs and a matching ottoman. A wooden table in the foreground holds a small decorative object. Buena Vista Winery, SONOMA

Founded in 1857, Buena Vista Winery is the oldest operating winery in California. Shuttered in 1989 following the devastating Loma Prieta earthquake, the winery sat vacant for more than 20 years before vintner Jean Charles Boisset came along and restored it.

Boisset seismically retrofitted the Champagne Cellars to withstand future earthquakes and added touches of his signature flair—incorporating crystal chandeliers, fur, and gold in a Gatsby-inspired Bubble Lounge—while still maintaining the building's original heartbeat. As a tribute to Buena Vista's rich history, he's also curated a Historic Wine Museum, featuring a display of antique wine tools. buenavistawinery.com.
