The Mother's Day Gift Guide Every Wine Loving Mom Wants You to Follow

Mother's Day is this Sunday. I know what you are thinking, "Wait, wasn't it just Valentine's Day? Didn't the holidays like just end?" You are correct. The year is close to half over and you missed most of it slaving away on your computer and scrolling through posts with visions of FOMO dancing in your head. This brings us back to my original statement, it is May and Mother's day is literally days away.

By now you think you know what Mom wants for Mother's Day. You are a genius and you Googled, "What to give Mom on Mother's Day?" Which could be how you ended up here. However, that is doubtful because I know as much about SEO as I know about rocket science. So, now that you Googled you think she wants to go to brunch. You think she wants a scented candle. If you are a wine marketing person, you think she wants sweet pink wine. Newsflash! Moms like red wine too. Pulling a John Oliver here: #feminism #mom

Mom might want a few of the things I mentioned above, but she definitely wants all of the things I'm listing below. Mom wants to sleep in past 8am. Mom wants to drink her coffee in bed alone for one hour. Mom does not want to tend to anyone's needs for a full 24 hours. Mom does not want to change a single diaper from 7am-7pm. Mom can't at 7am anyway because she will be sleeping!

Last and obviously not least, Mom, wants WINE. Lots and lots of wine. Coming in all colors of the rainbow. Mom wants red wine. Mom wants white wine. Mom wants bubbles. Mom wants still wine. Mom wants dry wine. Mom might even want sweet pink wine. Here are some wines that this mom tasted and would love to drink on Mother's Day or any day of the year for that matter.
