

The Best Gift Sets for Foodies, Decor Lovers, and Particularly Picky People on Your List

Danielle Directo-Meston and Oscar Hartzog
 October 20, 2021 · 8 min read

Credit: Courtesy Our Place

Even if you know what piques the interests of your best friend or family member, the best gift can still seem inexplicably elusive. And if you want to go the extra mile and get them more than one thing to unwrap, but aren't excited about shopping at several different stores, then a gift set might be the best way to go.

Unsurprisingly, the best gift sets are focused on universally pleasing categories like food, drinks, beauty, grooming, and home goods. From musician-backed wines and skincare, to gourmet upgrades for your favorite culinary star-in-the-making, we've handpicked some of the coolest gift set ideas for Valentine's Day and beyond.

12. LVE by John Legend & Jean-Charles Boisset: Living Legends Rosé Tasting

EGOT club member John Legend isn't just a Grammy-winning humanitarian — he's also a winemaker. The philanthropic singer/songwriter teamed with Franco-American wine entrepreneur Jean-Charles Boisset on LVE, a line of Napa Valley bubbly that vino lovers and music superfans will want to pop open stat. This two-bottle tasting set includes a French sparkling rosé (which has notes of citrus, red currants, and pomelos) and a Côtes de Provence (an aromatic wine with notes of peach blossom, raspberry, apricot, white nectarine, and strawberry).

Credit: Wine.com
 Wine.com