Some states hit pause, others press on amid spike in virus

People tastes wines from a dispensary at the Oakville Wine Merchant Friday, June 12, 2020, in Oakville, Calif. California wineries started uncorking their bottles and welcoming people back to their tasting rooms Friday as the state's $145 billion tourism industry gears up with hotels, zoos, museums and aquariums also allowed to reopen. The wine retail experience in Oakville features 50 different wines by the taste or glass and is open to the public without an appointment. ... less
