4 Badass Women Winemakers and Their Unique Tasting Room Experiences

September 4, 2017 by NICOLE IIZUKA

Stephanie Putnam at Raymond Vineyards

Stephanie Putnam is the director of winemaking at Raymond Vineyards, an eclectically delightful winery full of majestic whimsy and whims that would make a bedazzled Mad Hatter with a flair for the erotic, ecstatically happy. Stephanie is a well-seasoned winemaker who spent eight years honing her chops at Far Niente before joining the Boisset family estates, and her wines have won a ton of acclaim. When you visit the winery, be sure to check out the chandelier room and the red room, and go out into the garden to see the Frenchie vineyards.

If you have a little extra time, you can also treat yourself to being a winemaker for a day with the incredibly fun program in which you get to mix and match your own master blend, customized with its own original label. There's also the LVE Collection, created with none other than John Legend, and it's totally worth adding to your list. Wonder if he purposefully designed those wines to pair well with Chrissy Teigen's cooking?
