

Le magazine d'information sur les vins disponibles au Québec.

Bourgogne Pinot Black, Nature Ursuline 2014

September 28, 2016 - Marc André Gagnon

A natural wine. The first wine without sulfite home Jean-Claude Boisset.
It opens with beautiful aromas of fruits and spices.
The wine is full and tight for a pinot noir.
He chewy.
In the air wooded side takes over.
But the next day, turns into woody smoked what is more enjoyable.

I know there are habits and used wood, but here I will do my stage manager of Quebec - in kind, maybe we could use less wood!

Surprisingly, it is not part of the list of 10 wines Nature Site saq.com !

Grapes harvested in the commune of Nuits-Saint-Georges. Indigenous yeasts. 16 months on lees without racking, 50% new barrels. Unglued, very light filtration. 6000 bottles.
Alc. 12.5% Sugar 1.4 g / l.
In 58 stores.