

A Perfect San Francisco Weekend at Fairmont Heritage Place in Ghirardelli Square

By: Jennifer Boden

Updated: Mar 14, 2018 01:25 PM PDT

Eat and Drink at Ghirardelli

There was plenty to explore around Ghirardelli Square, and we were looking forward to getting a taste of some of the local flavors and shops.

Our first stop was Wattle Creek Winery, which offers Cabernet Sauvignon, Chardonnay, Merlot, Viognier, Sauvignon Blanc and more.

Visiting Wattle Creek is like getting a taste of Sonoma Wine Country, but in the city.

When famous French vintner, Jean-Charles Boisset brought Wattle Creek into his Boisset Collection, he transformed the space to create a unique experience for guests, including a ceiling full of floating Baccarat butterflies.

“The tasting room is a brilliant white, and our colorful Baccarat butterflies that symbolize our change and regrowth, but at the same time pays tribute to the beautiful winged creatures that live off of our namesake, the wattle tree,” said Dusty Rhodes, Tasting Room Manager.

The tasting room is open seven days a week, and you don’t need to worry about making a reservation. Just head in and enjoy some fine wine on the square.