2012 MABOROSHI VINEYARD PINOT NOIR

In the Vineyard

The Maboroshi Vineyard, nestled in the Sonoma Coast hills 600 feet in elevation, is one of the first spots to clear from the morning fog as ridges to the west shelter the site from any lingering marine layer. Named "whimsical dream" in Japanese, this vineyard is the meeting ground for opposites: warm sunlight and cool fog, elegance and structure. Fine Goldridge loam nurtures the vines, and the Kisaichi family meticulously tends to them using sustainable methods. First planted in 1999 and 2000, the steep hillside vineyards are not tilled in an effort to help prevent erosion and instead, goats are used to do the weeding for the family. Cover crops have helped keep the number of "good bugs" on the rise while leading to a drastic decline in the number of "bad bugs" without the use of pesticides. The Kisaichi family, like DeLoach Vineyards, is truly dedicated to producing the best fruit possible while becoming more in tuned to the flow of Mother Nature.

Conversations with the Winemaker

Whole berries were fermented in small open-top oak vats with hand punch downs, then basket pressed to barrel for secondary fermentation on the lees. The wine was aged for 14 months in 25% new French oak and 67% in second-fill barrels to lend softness to the oak characteristics.

Tasting Notes

This rich 2012 Maboroshi Vineyard Pinot Noir, a stunning deep red in the glass, opens with tantalizing aromas of raspberry and cheery with a touch of sandalwood. Flavors of mocha and ripe berries are accented by a hint of shitake on the back palate. Fine grained tannins and great structure lead to a long, lingering finish.
