Page 2 Southern District Hospice Services (SAHS) provides invaluable support and care to people living in the Southern Health Board area who suffer from cancer, Multiple Sclerosis, Motor Neurone Disease and AIDS. Our goal is to provide the best quality of life for our patients and their families. All of our services are provided free of charge and we rely heavily on voluntary donations to continue to provide our special care. Our website has rich information about our services, how to donate and more ways to support us. Together, we can help others. Did you know that while Hospice receives some annual financial support from the Department of Health, we rely a lot on fundraising. This year we need to fund £3.1M, which is approximately £260,000 each month. We need to raise these funds to continue to provide care and support to our patients and their families. Hospice Services in the Southern District created its first ever TV ad, which aired on UTV in November 2017. Thank you to Gordon Chemists, who sponsored the ad that helped raise awareness of Hospice Services in our area. We also thank our staff and volunteers who have been kindly involved. Newry Reporter was founded in 1867 by James Burns [1] and is the oldest newspaper serving the Newry and Mavren region in Northern Ireland, United Kingdom. History After James's death in 1902, the newspaper was sold to Joseph Wright, who worked at a printing house on Hill Street. The paper will be on Wright's property just seven years before the artwork fire saw Wright move to Canada. Robert Sands acquired the paper rights and began printing again after a four-month stop at the start of the fire. In 1912, the paper moved offices from Cianrye Grain Mills (owned by Sands) to Margaret Street, where it remains to this day. After Sands' death in 1915, the newspaper was published by the performers until 1927, when Edward Hodgson bought the rights. The paper remains with the Hodge family. [2] Today, the newspaper is published every week on Wednesday (although the front cover points to Thursday) after trying out both a two- - - three-week period that takes place in its history. The look and feel of the paper refreshed considerably in May 2007, when it reappeared as a full-color compact. Today, the main competitor in the region is Newry Democrat. According to ABC data (Jan-June 2013), Newry Reporter sells 9,842 copies a week, with Newry Democrat's distribution in the region of 6,000 copies. We start in Newry, County Down, where a cat hero called Spuds saved Christmas, and his owner's family by alerting them to a night fire. Pet owner Brendan Curran told Newry Reporter he was asleep in bed when Sud jumped on his chest to wake him up at about 05:00 GMT. He fell asleep, but the stumps jumped on him again, and when he grumbled about descending the cat outside, he found his kitchen filled with smoke. The former councillor says Spuds is not a very friendly, social cat, so climbing on it is very uncharacteristic.Image copyrightNewry Reporter image captionSpuds went too far with his nature reserve to pose for this photo with owner Brendan Curran He doesn't make people, doesn't like to be peted and it's very rare he'll even come near you, explains Mr Curran. Six people, including a newborn baby, were sleeping in the house at the time, so the cat was rewarded with extra turkey and ham on Christmas Day, but luckily, there were no baked Spuds.The reporter's story is a downtown attack that left Gaelic Athletic Association (GAA) player Caolan Mooney in hospital. It says the senior footballer's brother, Patrick, was also injured in the incident on December 30. Image copyright Afp Image caption This is a difficult start to winter for Northern Ireland hospitals, particularly those in the Western Health Trust area The Herald reports that all non-specialist operations have been postponed in their hospitals until February 2020.A spokesman for the trust said this was due to growing demand for non-urgent care, but insisted the emergency operation was not affected. The Herald leads with shock and heart over the death of a five-year-old boy from Derrylin. According to the newspaper, his death has devastated his family, school and local GAA club.imageFermanagh Herald The Larne Times reports that many unsuspecting motorbikes have been hit by parking fines after charges were introduced at a retail park in the city. Parking was free in lakarna shopping park, but in October, private company Smart Parking began operating a new camera system to combat high levels of parking abuse. Ulster Unionist MLA Roy Beggs says he has been contacted by a number of drivers facing £60 fines after being caught up in the changes. Smart Parking says 26 signs have been installed across the site explaining the new but urged anyone who believes they were being wrongly charged to contact them.Image CopyrightLarne TimesThe TimesThe Times also reports a minute's madness on the railway line after a girl jumped off a platform and intercepted two railway lines to see friends on the opposite platform. Police officers were on board a train that was boarding and said their driver had to stop long after he sneered at the girl in Clippertstown, Carrickfergus. It would take less than a minute to walk up the stairs and climb the bridge to see his friends safely, a police spokesman said. Image copyright Psni Carrickfergus Image caption Police in Carrickfergus described the incident on the track as the incredible AA Stormont veteran made a political comeback at the Ulter Gazette. The newspaper says party members hope it will play a major role in reviving their fortunes. Mr Kennedy said it was a huge honour to serve the party, which was 16, adding that writing the Ulster Unionist Party obituary was wrong. 2015 2015 2017 2015 2017 2017 2017 2017 2017.
