

Why defend Scripture; is it worth the fight?

The idea of actually fighting for doctrinal truth is the furthest thing from most churchgoers' thoughts. Contemporary Christians are determined to get the world to like them. The doctrine of the clarity of Scripture has been a cornerstone of evangelical belief ever since the Reformation. The Word of God was revealed in an understandable way, its central message is clear, and (because it is clear) all men are fully accountable to its message. — John MacArthur
