

The Marketing of Evil

David Kupelian

6 Obsessed with Sex How Fraudulent
Science Unleashed a Catastrophic
“Revolution”

*WARNING-THIS CHAPTER CONTAINS GRAPHIC AND DISTURBING CONTENT THAT IS VERY 'ADULT' IN NATURE-PARENTAL DISCRETION IS REQUESTED

Marketing of Sex

- The widely revered father of the sexual revolution, Alfred C. Kinsey, was a full-fledged sexual psychopath who encouraged pedophilia and whose vaunted «scientific surveys» included interviewing incarcerated sex offenders and prostitutes while pretending they were normal WWII-era Americans. Today, with Kinsey's fraudulent "research" in hand to bolster them, corporations, Hollywood, academics, social revolutionaries and pornographers market sexual obsession to us in every form imaginable.

Marketing of Sex

- Both Hugh Hefner, who went on to create the Playboy empire and Harry Hay, who founded the gay rights movement in America, were inspired by Kinsey. They, as well as other marketers of sexual obsession, have convinced many Americans that consensual sex, no matter what kind, is normal and healthy, opening the door for us to give into our lower nature and rebel against our Creator's plan. His will is for us to rediscover unselfish love and relate to sex properly within the contract of marriage.

Selling Sex in Prime Time????

- Everyone knows that ‘sex sells’, but the marketing industry is becoming increasingly relentless in leveraging this principle.
- One of the biggest changes in modern media has been a shocking insensitivity to potentially exposing children to hyper-sexualized messaging and imagery
- This became troublingly apparent during the 2004 Super Bowl broadcast, which featured both the infamous Janet Jackson ‘wardrobe malfunction’ (where her bare breast was exposed during the halftime show).
- Another ‘landmark’ of that game was the prominent commercial launch of the Viagra competitor, Cialis, in the burgeoning field of drug treatment for Erectile Dysfunction.
- In the fierce battle for market share in what was a $4.3 billion dollar per year business in 2013, Lilly (The company that makes Cialis) spent more than one hundred million dollars launching its competitor to Pfizer’s Viagra, the market leader.
- To further penetrate the mass mind, Cialis’s marketers even met with sitcom writers and Broadway producers to induce them to incorporate the sexual-potency drug into their scripts.
- Such ads are inundating not just TV, but radio, the Internet, newspapers, magazines, and mailboxes nationwide. They’ve become part of today’s “mainstream” cultural landscape, along with Cosmopolitan and clones with their “Hot Sex Tips” and in-your-face cleavage screaming from every grocery checkout in the country, not to mention evermore-explicit TV and movie fare, and ubiquitous spam e-mail messages hawking supplements.

Selling Sex in Prime Time????

- Howard Stern, MTV, swimsuits, the fashion industry, cars, children's toys. You name it, and it's been sexualized.
- And that's just what's on the surface
- But scratch just a fraction of an inch beneath that veneer of civilization, and you'll leave the world of entertainment and marketing and enter the world of hardcore sex, perversion, crime, and self-destruction.

SECRET OBSESSION

- FIRST, THERE'S the multi-billion-dollar pornography industry, which through the Internet is magically being transported into previously unreachable market territory—namely, the sanctity of millions of middle-class homes.
- By all accounts, Internet pornography has become a genuine national epidemic, ensnaring millions of people who never had a pornography problem before.
- Online porn is immediately accessible, almost totally anonymous, inexpensive (or free), and highly addictive.
- Indeed, it has been called “the crack cocaine of pornography.”

SECRET OBSESSION

- Revenues from pornography exceed those of all professional football, baseball, and basketball franchises combined. The industry generated $97 Billion dollars per year according the New Mexico State Sociology professor Kassia Wosick in 2014 ($10-$12 Billion from U.S.)
- While the figures are disputed, 2010 estimates reflected that nearly 37% of Internet traffic is porn related. According to Kupelian in 2005, there were 4.2 million pornographic Web sites—that's 12 percent of all Web sites in the world, totaling 372 million pornographic pages. Pornographic search engine requests total 68 million per day.
- The fact of the matter is that no one really knows how much of the Internet is comprised of pornography, but it is safe to say that it is both prolific and profitable on a scale that was unimaginable before the advent of widespread mainstream use of the Internet.

SECRET OBSESSION

- Some 'scientific studies', mostly from Scandinavia, have claimed that pornography can actually be beneficial, but as scientist and adjunct law professor of bioethics Kelly Hollowell points out:
  - Studies reveal that acts of sexual violence are commonly linked to pornography and the numbers of victims are massive.
  - According to sworn testimony before the U.S. Senate, experts reveal that by the time a female in the U.S. is 18 years old, 38 percent have been sexually molested.
  - One in eight women will be raped.
  - Fifty percent of women will be sexually harassed on their jobs during their lifetimes.
  - In fact, sexual dysfunction is on such a rampant rise that experts are calling it more than an epidemic. They are calling it a sexual holocaust.
- A recent Huffington Post article (May 20, 2015) stated that in regards to rape, or attempted rape of college freshmen, 1 in 5 women were victimized. According to Lisa Maatz, vice president of government relations at the American Association of University women stated that in a recent study 37 percent of women surveyed said that they were either raped or attacked by someone who attempted rape at least once from the age of 14 through the end of their freshman year in college.

SECRET OBSESSION

- But pornography is just the fuel. A quick survey of the sexual fires now blazing is even more disturbing:
  - There is a youthful epidemic of “hooking up” —widespread, casual, recreational sex, often with multiple partners.
  - More children, at earlier ages, are engaging in sexual acts than ever before.
  - Homosexual sex, a generation ago, was widely considered both immoral and pathological. Today it’s enshrined as a constitutional right and the hallmark of a new “protected class.” Government schools nationwide teach children as young as five that homosexuality is normal and that disagreeing with this viewpoint brands you as an intolerant “
  - The popular culture always portrays homosexuals sympathetically and often as heroes.
- One by one, the time-honored sexual taboos of Western civilization are crashing down with dizzying speed.

SECRET OBSESSION

- When the Supreme Court, in its controversial 2003 Lawrence v. Texas decision, struck down that state's anti-sodomy statute, the court opened the legal floodgates not only to homosexual marriage but potentially to the total legitimization of all "consensual" sex acts, including polygamy and adult incest.
- Indeed, polygamists have jumped onto the Lawrence bandwagon and are pushing to have marriage with multiple partners legalized in the United States. After all, they argue, their relationships are consensual and they are adults—so what's the problem?
- This culminated in December 2013, when, powered by the notoriety of their TLC show "Sister Wives", a federal judge ruled that a key section of a Utah law criminalizing polygamy was unconstitutional...a case built on the outcome of the 2003 Lawrence v. Texas decision.

SECRET OBSESSION

- Sexual slavery is also a MAJOR global problem. no longer confined to the Far East, Australia, and other exotic locales.
- Recent statistics from DoSomething.org are disturbing:
  - Globally, the average cost of a slave is $90
  - Trafficking primarily involves sexual exploitation (80% vs. 19% labor)
  - There are approximately 20-30 million slaves in the world today
  - According to the U.S. State Department, 600,000-800,000 people are trafficked across international borders every year, of which 80% are female and half are children.
  - The average age of a teen who enters the sex trade in the U.S. is 12-14 years old. Many victims are runaway girls who were sexually abused as children.
  - Human trafficking is the 3rd largest international crime industry behind drugs and guns. It reportedly generates a profit of $32 billion every year, $15.5 billion from industrialized nations

SECRET OBSESSION

- Believe it or not, even child sexual abuse, rape, and incest (which its apologists euphemistically now call “adult-child sex” and “intergenerational sex”) are slowly but surely gaining respectability.
- As far back as 1999 the American Psychological Association, which claims to be the largest association of psychologists worldwide with more than 150,000 members, published in its peer-reviewed journal, APA Bulletin, a report disputing the harmfulness of child molestation.
  - Titled “A Meta-Analytic Examination of Assumed Properties of Child Sexual Abuse Using College Samples,” the report by Bruce Rind et al. claimed child sexual abuse could be harmless and beneficial.
- A September 2012 piece by Cord Jefferson from the mainstream online site, Gawker, titled ‘Born This Way: Sympathy and Science for Those Who Want to Have Sex with Children’. One prominent pullout statement from the article stated ‘Some pedophiles will suffer through entire lives without hurting a single child’. The article provided ‘scientific and research based’ arguments that pedophiles are ‘born that way’ and cannot be changed. While not advocating for pedophilia, the article certainly raised questions about the fairness of criminalizing a particular group of people from birth.
- A January 2013 LA Times article written by Alan Zarembo, took a rather apologetic stance in regards to pedophilia, citing an increasing number of researchers are suggesting that pedophiles are ‘born that way’ (due to being born with a cross wired brain-less white matter)
- Following this line of thinking-pedophilia should be a condition, not a crime....not the first time we’ve heard that. Just a couple of decades ago, these same arguments were the basis and rationale for the homosexual liberation movement.

SECRET OBSESSION

- There is substantial evidence to suggest that pedophilia is also waiting to 'come out of the closet'.
- There are apparently quite a few pedophiles around the world (or a few really wealthy pedophiles), as, worldwide, child porn generates three billion dollars in revenues every year.
- Hollywood has done it's part as well.
  - The 1999 film 'American Beauty' won the Academy Award for Best Picture. The protagonist in the film seeks to escape his mid-life crisis through the pursuit of one of his daughter's underage friends.
  - In the 2004 movie, Birth, Academy Award winner Nicole Kidman plays Anna, a young widow who thinks her deceased husband has been reincarnated into the body of a 10 year old boy. The film depicts Kidman kissing him on the lips, inquiring if he has ever had sex, and him undressing to join her in the bathtub.
  - The child beauty pageant circuit which frequently involves a disturbing overt sexualization of young girls has increased in it's popularity, despite the tragedy of the pedophilic murder of Jon Benet Ramsey in 1996. Popular shows like Toddlers and Tieras and Here Comes Honey Boo Boo continue to contribute to the boom of this pageant circuit both in American and the U.K.

SECRET OBSESSION

- How on earth did America get to this point where we're literally drowning in sex and corrupting each other right and left?
- How can we return to a more innocent time, to a culture of morality and of real respect between men and women? Is it even possible?
- Exactly how and when did we "buy into" wanton sexual anarchy disguised as freedom?

Ozzie, Harriet....and Kinsey

- TURN the clock back a few decades—before the days of the Internet and instant, anonymous and free online porn.
- Back before the 1990s with Bill and Monica, before the 1980s with its major growth in sex education and birth-control clinics in government schools.
- Back before the high point of the sexual revolution—the 1973 Roe v. Wade abortion decision.
- Back even before the tumultuous 1960s and its “make love, not war” and “sex, drugs, and rock ‘n’ roll” youth counterculture.
- Let’s go back to the era most Americans still remember fondly as the golden age of traditional values and national sanity—the 1950s.

Ozzie, Harriet....and Kinsey

- It was a more innocent and naïve time than now. We were at peace. John F. Kennedy hadn't been assassinated.
- Americans trusted their government, schools, and news media. They bought whatever caught their fancy at the supermarket without reading the labels—it was before the era of caveat emptor (“buyer beware”).
- We'll stop our time machine at the very beginning of this era—around the start of the baby boomer generation—in 1948, a pivotal year.
- Harry S. Truman was president of a nation greatly relieved to be home from war.
- Traditional values were intact, and hope for a prosperous and peaceful future was everywhere in the air.
- Then, on January 5, 1948, a bomb was dropped on America....
- Indiana University zoologist Alfred C. Kinsey released the book Sexual Behavior in the Human Male.
- Today, more than five decades later, Kinsey is universally referred to as the “father of the sexual revolution.”

Ozzie, Harriet....and Kinsey

- The respected National Research Council says the science of sex “can be divided somewhat crudely into the pre-Kinsey and post-Kinsey eras.”
- Scott McLemee in Salon writes, “The history of sex in America falls into two large, unequal, yet clearly defined periods.
  - The first era belonged to the Puritans, the Victorians.... This epoch of libidinal prohibition lasted until Jan. 4, 1948.
  - The following day, Professor Alfred C. Kinsey of Indiana published ‘Sexual Behavior in the Human Male.’ Whereupon, as the expression has it, the earth moved.

Ozzie, Harriet....and Kinsey

- Funded by the prestigious Rockefeller Foundation and based on thousands of interviews, Kinsey had “discovered” that while American men of the World War II “greatest generation” pretended to be faithful and monogamous, virtually all of them—95 percent—were, according to 1948 law, sex offenders.
- Specifically, Kinsey claimed that:
  - 85 percent of males had intercourse prior to marriage,
  - nearly 70 percent had sex with prostitutes,
  - and 30–45 percent of husbands had extramarital affairs.
  - Moreover, from 10 to 37 percent of men had engaged in homosexual acts, according to Kinsey.
- In fact, the oft-repeated claim that one in ten human beings is homosexual—a cornerstone of the “gay rights” movement until it was debunked—came directly from Kinsey’s published research.
- In endless and graphic detail, Kinsey painted a picture of Americans as being amoral sexual animals in search of constant gratification.

Ozzie, Harriet....and Kinsey

- If Kinsey had discovered the cure for all diseases, his press coverage could not have been more extensive or enthusiastic.
- Time, Life, Look, and most of the rest of the mainstream press reported that Kinsey—whom they portrayed as a conservative Republican academic and devoted family man—had conducted the most exhaustive scientific survey ever of Americans' sexual habits.
- The previously unknown zoologist—whose only prior claim to fame had been his comprehensive and painstaking research into the gall wasp—was catapulted overnight to the status of national hero, in keeping with Americans' postwar near-worship of science.

Ozzie, Harriet....and Kinsey

- The revolutionary Kinsey Reports, as they came to be known—including his companion volume released in 1953, Sexual Behavior in the Human Female—rocked the nation’s beliefs about itself.
- But perhaps most shocking of all were his “findings” on childhood sexuality.
- The Kinsey Reports came to the stunning conclusion that children are sexual from birth, and that youngsters as young as a few months of age have the capacity for a pleasurable and healthy sexual life.
- Despite the radical nature of Kinsey’s findings, he was honored as a heroic scientific pioneer, pushing back the dark boundaries of ignorance and delivering new knowledge that would guide America in a brave, new world of sexual enlightenment.
- That is, until 1981, when a sole researcher—a Ph.D. and scholar named Judith Reisman—came along and raised the question of “Table 34”.
- How did Kinsey and his associates obtain this “research” that infants as young as five months of age enjoyed sex?

Toddler Sex

- According to Reisman, whose heartbreaking findings were corroborated subsequently by other researchers:
  - Kinsey solicited and encouraged pedophiles, at home and abroad, to sexually violate from 317 to 2,035 infants and children for his alleged data on normal “child sexuality”.
- Whoa! Wait a minute. This seems too horrible to be true. You’re got to be thinking, Why haven’t I heard about this before? If this actually happened, Kinsey would have been arrested and locked up. This must be some hysterical anti-sex researcher jumping to conclusions.
- Reisman is a world-renowned expert and scholar on this subject, has been a consultant to four U.S. Department of Justice administrations, the Department of Education, and the Department of Health and Human Services, and is sought worldwide to lecture, testify, and counsel regarding fraudulent sex science. She is speaking the awful truth here.

Toddler Sex

- Indiana University portrayed Kinsey as a conservative Republican and family man, and the press totally and uncritically bought into this image.
- First there were rumors that Kinsey had interviewed a lot of prisoners and sex-offenders, casting doubt on the integrity of his population sample.
- Then there were whispers about his own unorthodox sexual practices and obsessions.
- But never did these untidy personal foibles seem sufficient to undermine the vaunted reputation of Kinsey's research—or its radical conclusions

PSYCHOPATH

- ALFRED C. KINSEY—the universally proclaimed “father of the sexual revolution,” the supposedly conservative family man, the objective scientific researcher and amiable academic—was a sexual psychopath.
- Summarizing Alfred C. Kinsey: A Public/Private Life, the 1997 biography of the scientist by pro-Kinsey author James H. Jones, Salon’s McLemee writes:
  - At some point in adolescence, Kinsey developed a taste for masochistic practices. He also had some pronounced voyeuristic and exhibitionistic tendencies.
  - Kinsey died from infection as a result of his self-abuse.

PSYCHOPATH

- Kinsey's most recent admiring biographers," summarizes Reisman, somewhat less euphemistically, "confessed he was a sadistic bi/homosexual, who seduced his male students and coerced his wife, his staff and the staff's wives to perform for and with him in illegal pornographic films made in the family attic.
- Kinsey and his mates, Wardell Pomeroy, Clyde Martin and Paul Gebhard, had 'front' marriages that concealed their strategies to supplant what they saw as a narrow procreational Judeo-Christian era with a promiscuous 'anything goes' bi/gay pedophile paradise.

PSYCHOPATH

- But wasn't his research still solid?
- Uh, no. Kinsey's "research" team:
  - 1) "forced" subjects to give the desired answers to their sex questions,
  - 2) secretly trashed three quarters of their research data, and
  - 3) based their claims about normal males on a roughly 86 percent aberrant male population including 200 sexual psychopaths, 1,400 sex offenders and hundreds each of prisoners, male prostitutes and promiscuous homosexuals.
  - Moreover, so few normal women would talk to them that the Kinsey team labeled women who lived over a year with a man "married," reclassifying data on prostitutes and other unconventional women as "Susie Homemaker."

PSYCHOPATH

- How does Indiana University's Kinsey Institute explain things like Table 34 with its "data" derived from the criminal sexual abuse of hundreds of infants and children?
- Here's how the official Kinsey Web site answers this seemingly unanswerable question: WHERE DID THE CHILDHOOD SEXUAL DATA COME FROM?"
  - Reports of childhood sexual behavior were mostly from interviews of adults recalling their early experiences. Parents and teachers were also asked if they had noticed sexual reactions in their children, and some children were interviewed in the presence of a parent or teacher. Among more than 5,000 men interviewed for "Sexual Behavior in the Human Male," there were 9 who reported having had sexual relations with children. One in particular, with an extensive sexual history, is the source of the childhood response tables in the Male book. Dr. Kinsey and his staff never conducted experiments with children.

PSYCHOPATH

- Although Kinsey claimed the child-sexuality information came from multiple sources, in 1995 then-Kinsey Institute director John Bancroft insisted it all came from serial pedophile Rex King, speculating that Kinsey might have “invented” the other purported sources for his child sexual response data as a way of protecting King.
- In fact, not only did Kinsey use data from Rex King—whom Kinsey encouraged, in writing, to continue with his “research”—but also from Nazi criminal Fritz von Balluseck, who was arrested and investigated for the murder of a ten-year-old girl and ultimately convicted of sexual abuse of up to two hundred children.
- As a Times of London story notes, Kinsey and von Balluseck corresponded, with Kinsey once warning the Nazi pedophile to “watch out” so as to avoid being caught.
  - On November 24, 1944, Kinsey wrote to King: “I rejoice at everything you send, for I am then assured that much more of your material is saved for scientific publication.”

PSYCHOPATH

- Hollywood again chipped in, glorifying Dr. Kinsey in a 2004 Feature Film, which went on to earn 41 film award nominations including the AFI Film of the Year.
- So the “heroic scientist”—whose “research” launched the sexual revolution and provides the “scientific” basis for it to the current day—was actually a sexually depraved human being who “rejoiced” at pedophiles’ conducting horrifying, Joseph Mengele–like sexual experiments on hundreds of children.

WHY NO MASS OUTCRY?

- “BUT,” YOU say, “something still stinks here. If all this is really true, how come Kinsey hasn’t been more widely discredited? Why has Hollywood made a feature movie glorifying him?”
- When it comes to America’s culture, laws, beliefs, and attitudes regarding sex, Kinsey is still king—revered to this day by the vast majority of academics and “experts.” Why?
- In his book Libido Dominandi: Sexual Liberation and Political Control, E. Michael Jones sheds some light on why Reisman’s research has met with such a tepid response.
  - On July 23, 1981, Reisman delivered a paper entitled “The Scientist as a Contributing Agent to Child Sexual Abuse: A Preliminary Study” where she highlighted Tables 30-34 of the Kinsey Male volume and wondered how this data could have been obtained without involvement in criminal activity. At the end of the presentation the attendees sat in stunned silence until a Swedish reporter wondered out loud why the assembled experts had nothing to say.

WHY NO MASS OUTCRY?

- The silence was understandable. Just about everyone in attendance had cited Kinsey as their mentor, and some even knew about the criminal activity involved in Kinsey's research.
- They all knew that Kinsey's research was the basis of their "science," which is to say, the legitimizing basis for everything they did.
- Kinsey was the foundation of that house of cards. If what he had done could be discredited, it threatened the sexual empire that had been built since his death and upon which they all depended for a livelihood.
- Reisman documents that Kinsey served as the inspiration and mentor for two men who carried forward the torch of sexual liberation: Hugh Hefner and Harry Hay.

WHY NO MASS OUTCRY?

- In high school, Hefner had written an essay bemoaning the lack of explicit discussion of sex in 1950s Ozzie and Harriet America.
- A few years later he read Kinsey's Sexual Behavior in the Human Male and praised it in his college newspaper.
- Fortified, liberated, and energized by Kinsey's newly discovered "scientific truth" about human sexuality, Hefner didn't wait long before creating Playboy magazine, the clubs, and most of all, the "Playboy philosophy" that has so profoundly influenced the American psyche.

WHY NO MASS OUTCRY?

- When Harry Hay, who was sexually molested as a fourteen-year-old boy, read Kinsey's claim that 10 to 37 percent of men have had homosexual experiences, he left his wife and children and began the campaign to legitimize sodomy.
- He formed the Mattachine Society, urging that homosexuals be regarded as a 10 percent minority class.
- Hay was the father of the modern "gay rights" revolution that began in the 1960s.

WHY NO MASS OUTCRY?

- To this day, Kinsey is still the gold standard in sex research.
- In fact, in the more than two decades since she first exposed the Kinsey fraud in 1981, Reisman notes that the comprehensive Westlaw electronic legal database has cited Kinsey positively around 650 times—“on issues from hate crimes and homosexual marriage to child custody and rape.”
- And the Social Science and Science Citation Indices, she adds, “reference Kinsey roughly 6,000 times over this same period.
- On the evidence, Kinsey is far and away the most influential sex scientist in the law.
- Fully 100 percent of the sex science citations in the original 1955 American Law Institute’s ‘Model Penal Code’ cite Kinsey’s bogus data on ‘normal sexuality’—alive today in courts and legislatures.”

WHY NO MASS OUTCRY?

- Changing America's sex laws was exactly what Kinsey had intended, as biographer Jones revealed in 1997:
  - The man I came to know bore no resemblance to the canonical Kinsey.
  - Anything but disinterested, he approached his work with missionary fervor....
  - He wanted to undermine traditional morality, to soften the rules of restraint....
  - Kinsey was a crypto-reformer who spent his every waking hour attempting to change the sexual mores and sex offender laws of the United States.
- To sum it up, today virtually everything having to do with sex—from attitudes toward extramarital affairs and homosexuality to the nation's sex-education curricula, to the ways medicine, psychiatry, psychology, and even the criminal justice system define and deal with sexual pathology—is rooted firmly in the ludicrously fraudulent “data” of Kinsey and his cult of criminally deviant sex “researchers.”

WAR ZONE

- It's time to simply ask ourselves honestly why we ever bought into the big lie of sexual freedom.
- Could it be, when all is said and done, that we believed it because we wanted to believe it?
- That this fascinating new scientific “truth,” which seemed to bless and sanctify our darkest sexual tendencies, was too much to resist?
- Sex has always been a war zone.
- Sexual purity—living within certain behavioral confines deemed wholesome and moral, even if it means denying or delaying gratification of one's own powerful drives—has always been a major dividing line between those attempting to obey God's laws and those rebelling against them (or denying they exist).

WAR ZONE

- This chasm between Judeo-Christian sexual morality and, basically, the rest of the world becomes stunningly clear in Dennis Prager's award-winning essay, "Judaism, Homosexuality and Civilization":
  - When Judaism demanded that all sexual activity be channeled into marriage, it changed the world.
  - It is not overstated to say that the Torah's prohibition of non-marital sex made the creation of Western civilization possible.
  - Societies that did not place boundaries around sexuality were stymied in their development.
  - The subsequent dominance of the Western world can largely be attributed to the sexual revolution initiated by Judaism, and later carried forward by Christianity.

WAR ZONE

- The revolution consisted of forcing the sexual genie into the marital bottle.
- It ensured that sex no longer dominated society, heightened male-female love and sexuality (and thereby almost alone created the possibility of love and eroticism within marriage), and began the arduous task of elevating the status of women.
- By contrast, throughout the ancient world, and up to the recent past in many parts of the world, sexuality infused virtually all of society.
- Human sexuality, especially male sexuality, is utterly wild.

WAR ZONE

- There is little, animate or inanimate, that has not excited some men sexually.
- Among the consequences of the unchanneled sex drive is the sexualization of everything—including religion.
- Unless the sex drive is appropriately harnessed (not squelched—which leads to its own destructive consequences), higher religion could not have developed.
- Thus, the first thing Judaism did was to de-sexualize God—“In the beginning God created the heavens and the earth” by His will, not through any sexual behavior.
- This broke with all other religions, and it alone changed human history.

WAR ZONE

- Prager goes on to catalog the various gods of the ancient world, showing that virtually all of them were depicted as engaging in sexual relations.
- Thus, “given the sexual activity of the gods, it is not surprising that the religions themselves were replete with all forms of sexual activity,” he explains, citing numerous examples of ancient and even more recent religious traditions that included “sacred” ceremonial sex of various sorts and ritual prostitution within religious sanctuaries, such as sex between Hindu monks and nuns and even sex with children.
- Judaism placed controls on sexual activity. It could no longer dominate religion and social life.
- It was to be sanctified—which in Hebrew means “separated”—from the world and placed in the home, in the bed of husband and wife.
- Judaism’s restricting of sexual behavior was one of the essential elements that enabled society to progress.
- Along with ethical monotheism, the revolution begun by the Torah when it declared war on the sexual practices of the world wrought the most far-reaching changes in history.

WAR ZONE

- Clearly the spiritual view of sex—particularly the Judeo-Christian view—is radically different from the mechanistic, secular, or pagan view of sex.
- Kinsey epitomized the latter. Like the socialists, progressives, Darwinists, atheists, humanists, and assorted other God-deniers that paved the way for him, Kinsey regarded man as an animal—and only an animal.
- Remember, Kinsey was a zoologist. He liked to film the mating habits of animals. When he moved on to studying human beings, he regarded this new sex research as just a continuation of his previous work.
- Think about it. If humans are just animals, without soul, spirit, or afterlife, without accountability to God and His laws, without an obligation to wrestle with their own lower, fallen nature so their noble, higher, godly nature can bloom—if none of this is real—then there’s just not much problem with Kinsey and his data.
- In that case, we are just animals, and whatever comes “naturally” to animals, whatever impulses and drives they experience, even if they seem bizarre, cruel or predatory, are right for that animal.

WAR ZONE

- But in reality, human beings are born with what amounts to a dual nature—a lower, prideful, selfish, hell-bent animal nature we inherit (rooted in what Christianity calls original sin), but also a higher, nobler, conscience-driven, heaven-oriented nature.
- And these two parallel worlds war for ascendancy over the mind and body of each and every one of us.
- Thus, when it comes to sex, despite the unruly sexual urges we discover within, they need to be restrained, according to the Judeo-Christian spiritual world view that has shaped Western society.
- Specifically, sex needs to be confined to an honorable, committed, lifelong heterosexual marriage. Only there do we find its true joy.
- The problem is, because this sex drive is so powerful and compelling, it “has a mind of its own” and is known to impel us urgently toward sexual expression rather than restraint.

WAR ZONE

- In fact, for most of us—and men in particular—regardless of whatever good character traits we may possess, there's also a part of us that is vulnerable to some sufficiently persuasive rationale that would set free the sexual genie within us from any limitations.
- This was exactly the dark reassurance that Kinsey delivered. He provided a “documentable” scientific cover for the latent rebellion against God's laws that is never too far from most of us.

HIGH PRIEST

- THE IMPLICIT message regarding sexuality coming from the secular, mechanistic world view—if we were to verbalize it—would be this:
  - Mankind, you have evolved powerful sexual desires.
  - There is no need to suppress them. If your activity is consensual, why should you be compelled to refrain from indulging whatever your sexual desires are, whenever you wish, regardless of how abnormal or strange those desires may seem to others?
  - As long as you don't hurt little children and confine your behavior to consenting adults, there is nothing immoral, unethical, wrong, or forbidden in doing whatever you want with whomever you want.
- Do you agree with this view? Does part of you agree with it? Many people do.
- Considering how widespread this view is today, it may be unnerving to realize this is also precisely the world view and philosophy of the Church of Satan—including the part about not victimizing children.
- Essentially, Satanist philosophy teaches that God is cruel and capricious—that although He created man with these powerful drives and lusts, He then unfairly denies His creatures their full and free expression without risking eternal damnation.

HIGH PRIEST

- Read what the Satanic Bible says about man and sex and note how familiar and mainstream it sounds:
  - The basics of Satanism have always existed.
  - The only thing that is new is the formal organization of a religion based on the universal traits of man.
  - For centuries, magnificent structures of stone, concrete, mortar, and steel have been devoted to man's abstinence.
  - It is high time that human beings stopped fighting themselves, and devoted their time to building temples designed for man's indulgences.
  - Even though times have changed, and always will, man remains basically the same.
  - For two thousand years man has done penance for something he never should have had to feel guilty about in the first place.
  - We are tired of denying ourselves the pleasures of life which we deserve....
  - Why not have a religion based on indulgence?
  - Certainly, it is consistent with the nature of the beast.
  - We are no longer supplicating weaklings trembling before an unmerciful "God" who cares not whether we live or die.
  - We are self-respecting, prideful people—we are Satanists!

HIGH PRIEST

- Satanism simply champions our prideful, lower nature—in rebellion against the Creator and His plan for mankind. But that's exactly the same mode in which a great many of us are already operating, having bought into a phony notion of freedom that really delivers exactly the opposite—bondage, addiction, and misery.

LOVE

- The Good Book says, “I will put my laws into their mind, and write them in their hearts: and I will be to them a God, and they shall be to me a people” (Hebrews 8:10).
- God’s truths are written in our hearts and minds.
- That’s why a three-year-old knows it’s wrong to steal. Nobody told him—he just knew.
- In the same way, we know extramarital sex is wrong. Just the fact that sex leads to having children—who need the love and security that parents provide—makes it crystal clear to the un-confused mind that God intends for only married people to have sex.

LOVE

- As the brilliant twentieth-century writer G. K. Chesterton put it,
  - Sex is an instinct that produces an institution; and it is positive and not negative, noble and not base, creative and not destructive, because it produces this institution.
  - That institution is the family; a small state or commonwealth which has hundreds of aspects, when it is once started, that are not sexual at all.
  - It includes worship, justice, festivity, decoration, instruction, comradeship, repose.
  - Sex is the gate of that house; and romantic and imaginative people naturally like looking through a gateway.
  - But the house is very much larger than the gate.
  - There are indeed a certain number of people who like to hang about the gate and never get any further.

LOVE

- Sex and love. The desire to have sex does not come from love anymore than the desire to eat comes from love.
- Both are basically animal functions.
- But the love part of sex has to do with everything else surrounding us in marriage—the commitment, caring, unselfishness, restraint, hard work, planning, sacrifice, affection, and endless patience.
- These provide the virtue that infuses an animal act with love.

LOVE

- Let's take it to the extreme and ask whether a king with his harem of dozens of concubines is happy and satisfied? No way.
- He's guiltier, more sensitive to stress, more conflicted and easily disturbed, more haunted by his own demons than you can imagine.
- Any illicit desire—even when fulfilled—is satisfied only temporarily.
- Before long the appetite returns—with a vengeance.
- This is the nature of addiction—the craving never ends, but the fix needed is always greater.
- That is, when we fulfill ourselves in a wrong way, the original high is no longer attainable just by having the same sexual experience, the same drug, the same hit as before.

LOVE

- To put it perhaps too plainly, men are born all but addicted to women.
- Men compulsively look at women in terms of gratification.
- Women, who quickly catch on to this terrible weakness men have for them—a weakness not only for physical gratification, but for the ego support and reassurance that usually come with it—in turn discover they have a tremendous power over men they never asked for.
- If they're not careful, they can easily become as addicted to men's need for them as their men are to sex, and then they'll compulsively promote their man's weaknesses for the sake of power over him.
- This basic sexual dynamic can easily become a serious problem.

LOVE

- That's why, without real virtue—not the phony kind, but real maturity on the part of married men and women—we just can't relate to sex properly.
- The games that develop around this syndrome give rise to enormous resentments, intrigues, and conflicts—and ultimately hatreds—which in turn are a major reason half of today's marriages, even among Christians, end in divorce.
- We need to rediscover, or discover for the first time, unselfish love for each other. If we do, we will relate to sex properly. If we don't, we are destined to drive each other into terrible conflict.

LOVE

- When all is said and done, Alfred Kinsey led the nation in the ultimate devaluation of something precious—love, marriage, children, and the difficult but fantastically rewarding personal growth that couples experience when they walk down that road of love and fidelity together.
- In truth, sex is a great mystery—a mysterium magnum.
- We constantly degrade sex into far less than it really is, but then we also build it up to be far more than it really is.
- To get it right, we just need to remember to Whom we belong.
- “Know ye not that your body is the temple of the Holy Ghost which is in you, which ye have of God, and ye are not your own? For ye are bought with a price: therefore glorify God in your body, and in your spirit, which are God’s” (1 Corinthians 6:19–20).