A Young Adult's Perspective on Worship

The age period between the early 20's up to the early 30's is considered a wasteland for attendance in the church. Often those who are absent in that time period give reasons along the lines that they don't have the time or that the church doesn't fit their needs. When I hear these reasons, as a young adult myself, I have to wonder if people understand the point of worship.

Honestly, why do we wake up early on our precious weekends and make our way to church for an hour of singing old hymns and reading even older passages? What do I get out of attending church Sunday morning? Well the problem is in the questions themselves.

Attending worship has very little to do with us; worship is about God. We allot ourselves time each week to be completely devoted to God. We gather to praise, give thanks, and rejoice for the wonders that have been bestowed on us. When one worships he or she does it as a sign of appreciation and dedication. It's the participation in worship that binds us together into the church. We arise early on Sundays, sing the old hymns of praise to God, and read the even older passages about how amazing our God is. We do all of this not hoping to receive anything but to give thanks for all that we have been given.

Another problem that I see that strikes both the younger and the older members of a congregation is what they define as worshiping. Most associate worshiping with attending a church service. With this view I believe that the bond between us as the body of Christ becomes more ceremonial, there only to simply exist. What I think we are called to do is to not only attend but to participate in worship. It is our participation that takes words printed in bulletins and hymnals and makes them into the living word of God. It is both our actions and our words that we bring forth as praises. Our hands and mouths the tools to bring God glory. It is with participation that we strength our bond as well as better worship our Lord.

A contributing factor with the perception people have of worship stems from how they identify the interactions that take place during service. Most overlook the binding quality that comes from call and response, or don't see how it qualifies as participating. They may comprehend what musicians can contribute, but don't grasp how the music allows others to worship God in ways they might not have before. Some see worship assistants and acolytes as traditional fluff and not as another expression of service and praise. Nor is it often stated that ushers, greeters, and readers offer the opportunity to serve the body of Christ itself. All of these roles are easy to overlook, I know I have myself. But each offers a way to worship that is more than just sitting in the pew and lets us be the church of God.

Church has given me many applicable skills and gifts. It has given me countless friends and inspirations. These are all things that I adore and have helped me to become the person I am today. And it is when I am at church Sunday morning, worshiping, that I praise God for all of those things. Whether I am playing music in the choir, handing out bulletins, reading the first reading, or just responding to the calls, that is what I call worship.

Stewardship of Creation

Let's play a game. Right now, from where you are sitting, how many steps are you from water?

If you are like me, water is all around you. Your water source may be the bathroom, kitchen or laundry room. Water could even be as close as a cup or bottle of water that is near you.

Today, in the world, 2.5 billion people live without basic sanitation, including access to potable water. In sub-saharan Africa, families, typically women and children, walk over 3 miles on average to draw water for daily use - that's 7,000 steps a day. These families pay a steep price for access to water. On average, they spend 660 hours of labor per year on fetching water. That's 2 months of labor on an 80 hour per week schedule. This lost time cannot be used for education, family care, growing crops or generating additional income.

Meanwhile, it seems we cannot walk more than a few steps without coming in contact with a water source. This is not accidental. We all are aware of how critical water is for life. Is it any wonder that water is one of the elements of baptism - a sacrament where ordinary water is applied and brings with it, extraordinary, eternal life?

We, the stewardship team at Christ the King are now taking up this call and ask that you join us in our stewardship of creation and the environment. We ask that you join us to build a well through the ELCA Good Gifts program.

A single well or spring box, costs $2,500 to build in the developing world - with it, comes clean drinking water, better health and sanitation, opportunities for education and advancement and a better life for those around it.

You may have seen the new display in the narthex. It is the well that we will build, brick by brick. For each $10 given, a brick will be added to the well. Through this display, we will see how we, the members of Christ the King, build a well, and provide for our fellow man.

You may give to the well project in one of the following ways:

- Place your giving in a pew envelope, write "well" on the envelope and place in the offering plate.
- Write a check and place "well" in the memo line and place in the offering plate.
- Place your giving in the box located in front of the well (envelopes provided).

Live Webcast With Bishop Eaton

Last week members of Christ the King were invited to participate in conversations on racism. The assigned readings while difficult gave many of us different perspectives from which to view the subject. To continue this conversation and have this conversation lead to action, we encourage those who seek harmony among all peoples to take advantage of an opportunity on August 6 to participate in a live webcast conversation between presiding Bishop Elizabeth Eaton of the ELCA and William B. Horne II, a lay leader and member of the ELCA church council. For more information on the webcast and how to participate please click here for the letter from Bishop Eaton. Only through discussion that leads to action will we as a community begin to heal the mistrust and biases built up over our nation's history. Together, with God's help, let us further live into the call to be instruments of God's peace and reconciliation.

Youth Fun in the Sun This Weekend!

July 25 - 26 Lake Lanier Gathering: Camping is optional, but you'll have the BEST time if you do! We are going to meet around 4 pm on Saturday, have supper around 6 to 6:30 with an evening meeting and bonfire/s'mores and night swimming. If you want to camp overnight, let's do it! We'll have our own Sunday service in the morning with the birds singing and the sun just rising over the horizon (my favorite kind of service, sorry, pastor). Those brave enough to camp overnight will have a hungryman breakfast cooked in a dutch oven and fresh rolls and pastries with fresh OJ (am I enticing you enough). We can stay at the campsite until 2 pm on Sunday so we can have another day of games, swimming, etc.

At this event we'll be wrapping up the 2015 school year and begin planning for our 2015-16 year.

Lifeline Preventive Screening

Christ the King Lutheran Church is pleased to offer a preventive health event. Life Line Screening, a leading provider of community-based preventive health screenings, will host their affordable, non-invasive and painless health screenings at the church on 8/20/2015 from 9am to 5pm. Five screenings will be offered that scan for potential health problems related to: blocked arteries which is a leading cause of stroke; abdominal aortic aneurysms which can lead to a ruptured aorta; hardening of the arteries in the legs which is a strong predictor of heart disease; atrial fibrillation or irregular heart beat which is closely tied to stroke risk; and a bone density screening, for men and women, used to assess the risk of osteoporosis. Life Line Screening is working with us to provide our members a $10 discount off of the package members choose. Register for a Wellness Package which includes 4 vascular tests and osteoporosis screening from $149 ($139 with our member discount) or only the 4 vascular tests from $139 ($129 with our member discount). All five screenings take 60-90 minutes to complete. Also, we are happy to announce that in addition to the $10 off, Lifeline will make a $10 donation to Christ the King Lutheran Church for each appointment made in one of three ways:

You must sign up on either the provided registration sheet (available on flyers inserted into weekly bulletins) or by calling the special Helping Hands registration number, which is 1-800-324-9458, or visit the exclusive Helping Hands website:

www.helpinghandsforhealth.com. You must sign up one of these three ways in order to get both the $10 discount as well as the $10 donation for our organization.
