

Vision Views are meant to inspire the vision for your home. Hill Country Contemporary architecture is a sophisticated style reflective of modern living, yet utilizing local materials and regional design techniques.

Although local stone is widely used in regional design, rammed earth, stucco, and wood siding all complement regional landscape and provide attractive, environmentally friendly, functional alternatives. More contemporary designs utilize metal brackets with awnings, and no divided-lite windows are common.

Rustic Hill Country Contemporary also referred to as Texas regional, blends clean lines with rustic material.

Hill Country Contemporary Architecture General Characteristics

- Low pitch metal roofs
- Rustic to contemporary
- Beams
- Utilizes primarily stone, rammed earth, some stucco accents
- Regional materials

(210) 408-9107
INFO@WD-HOMES.COM
WWW.WESTONDEANHOMES.COM