

SPACE CRAB TREEHOUSE AT CAMP SOUTHERN GROUND

The aptly titled “Space Crab” treehouse, located just out of sight on Camp Southern Ground, was named for its unique structure and its close resemblance to a horseshoe crab. Designed in part by Zac Brown and Pete Nelson of Animal Planet’s Treehouse Masters, the Space Crab is the perfect getaway for a corporate retreat or high-level think tank session.

This hideaway in the woods offers serene views of Camp Southern Ground’s lush greenery, while also affording your team the quietness to create and the exclusivity to come together and share ideas.

The main feature of the Space Crab is its “Knights of the Round table” style design, complete with a 1,500-pound, hand-crafted table made from Parota Wood that electronically lowers right out of the ceiling. Sit around the table and come together as a team as you share ideas and information in a collective-thinking setting.

CAMP SOUTHERN GROUND

Nestled on over 400 acres in the farmlands of Georgia, Camp Southern Ground, a 501 (c) (3) non-profit organization, is the passion-project of GRAMMY Award winning artist Zac Brown. Inspired by his own experience as a camp counselor, Zac's vision is to create a state-of-the-art facility that will serve children ages 7-17, from all socioeconomic backgrounds, races and religions, with programs of purpose involving superior nutrition, nature, music, arts and leadership.
