Wake up, Sleepers, to what women have dealt with all along in environments of gross entitlement & power. Are we sickened? Yes. Surprised? NO

Try to absorb how acceptable the disesteem and objectifying of women has been when some Christian leaders don't think it's that big a deal.

I'm one among many women sexually abused, misused, stared down, heckled, talked naughty to. Like we liked it. We didn't. We're tired of it.

"Keep your mouth shut or something worse will happen." Yes. I'm familiar with the concept. Sometimes it's terrifyingly true. Still, we speak

“Be aware that almost every word out of a leader’s mouth right now is being twisted, turned & taken out of context for political agendas. My tweets on 10/9/16 had 1 purpose: to speak up for sexually abused women who feel voiceless. I do not support/endorse either candidate. My whole ministry life is serving Jesus thru serving women. To expect me not to speak up in their behalf is like expecting a dog not to bark.”
