Natural Heritage Inventory searches are made to determine if endangered, threatened, or special concern animals, plants or plant communities exist.

The Natural Resources Heritage Inventory (NHI) lists no Endangered, Threatened or Special Concern Species or Natural Communities within your property.

This same NHI review showed that there are known Endangered, Threatened or Special Concerns Species or Natural Communities present within the surrounding area but they show up on the Wolf River a mile away, and are not known to occur on this property. For additional information on rare plants, animals and natural plant communities, visit <http://dnr.wi.gov/org/land/er>.

The Archaeological Resources Inventory lists no archaeological resources within this MFL property
 The Historical Resources Inventory lists no historical resources within this MFL property.

Contact your local DNR Forester for additional information on archaeological and historical sites.

Your plan defines similar vegetative groupings or areas of land that can be combined for management purposes. Foresters call such areas "stands." Prescriptions (also called "practices") are scheduled for each stand according to its age, condition and characteristic plant species.

Mandatory Practices:

You must complete or establish mandatory practices in the manner prescribed by the end of the year listed below; if not, the department may be required to issue a non-compliance fee or withdraw your property from the MFL program.

If withdrawn, your property may be subject to substantial property taxes and a withdrawal fee.

You must file two cutting notices at least 30 days before you may cut or harvest timber. You must file a Wisconsin Cutting Notice and Report (Form 2450-32). Additionally, you must file a separate county cutting notice with the County Clerk prior to any harvest. The cutting prescriptions must be within the guidelines of the Department of Natural Resources Silviculture Handbook at <http://dnr.wi.gov/forestry/Publications/Handbooks/24315/> and the Forest Management Guidelines at <http://dnr.wi.gov/forestry/Publications/Guidelines/>.

Non-mandatory Practices:

Non-mandatory practices are optional; however, to get the maximum benefit from your Managed Forest Law-Stewardship Forestry Plan, it is important that you set aside time and money to complete your non-mandatory practices. These practices will enhance the growth rate and species composition of your forest; improve wildlife habitat and recreational opportunities.

Many non-mandatory practices are eligible for cost-share assistance under the Wisconsin Forest Landowner Grant Program.
