Overview
This tool can be used in any part of the FBF cycle, but is perhaps most appropriate when seeking to receive open feedback on a particular issue or project.

Instructions
- The start of a sentence is written on a board or a large sheet of paper. Each community member is given a piece of paper on which they are asked to write the conclusion to the sentence.
- These papers are all then stuck onto the board or large sheet of paper.

Go Deeper
- The facilitator should ask a community member to read out all of the responses. Exploring questions can be asked to encourage community members to discuss the responses, particular trends emerging and even what could be done to address anything that has arisen.

Top Tip
- If paper to write down answers is not available, or participants are not confident in writing, it is OK for the answers to be spoken aloud. As a facilitator, make sure you can take notes on what is said.

Example Questions
- The thing I have appreciated most about this week is...
- The thing I would have changed about this week is...
- The thing I have contributed most to the project is ...
- The most helpful aspect of this project was...
- I would tell others that the Salvation Army .....
- The thing I would change about the way in which the Salvation Army has worked with us is ...
- What I have liked about the way that the Salvation Army has worked with us is ...
- The biggest challenge I see for this team is ...
- The greatest success of this project over the past 6 months has been ...