Viganò Fights The Deep State

Prayer for The United States of America

Composed by His Excellency Archbishop Carlo Maria Viganò
Former Apostolic Nuncio to The United States

Almighty and Eternal God, King of Kings and Lord of Lords: graciously turn your gaze to us who invoke You with confidence.

Bless us, citizens of the United States of America; grant peace and prosperity to our Nation; illuminate those who govern us so that they may commit themselves to the common good, in respect for Your holy Law.

Protect those who, defending the inviolable principles of the Natural Law and Your Commandments, must face the repeated assaults of the Enemy of the human race.

Keep in the hearts of Your children courage for the truth, love for virtue and perseverance in the midst of trials.

Make our families grow in the example that Our Lord has given us, together with His Most Holy Mother and Saint Joseph in the home of Nazareth; give to our fathers and mothers the gift of Strength, to educate wisely the children with which you have blessed them.

Give courage to those who, in spiritual combat, fight the good fight as soldiers of Christ against the furious forces of the children of darkness.

Keep each one of us, O Lord, in your Most Sacred Heart, and above all He whom Your Providence has placed at the head of our Nation.

Bless the President of the United States of America, so that aware of his responsibility and his duties, he may be a knight of justice, a defender of the oppressed, a firm bulwark against Your enemies, and a proud supporter of the children of light.

Place the United States of America and the whole world under the mantle of the Queen of Victories, our Unconquered Leader in battle, the Immaculate Conception. It is thanks to her, and through your Mercy, that the hymn of praise rises to you, O Lord, from the children whom you have redeemed in the Most Precious Blood of Our Lord Jesus Christ.

Amen.

Holy Trinity Sunday

Mr. President,

In recent months we have been witnessing the formation of two opposing sides that I would call Biblical: the children of light and the children of darkness. The children of light constitute the most conspicuous part of humanity, while the children of darkness represent an absolute minority. And yet the former are the object of a sort of discrimination which places them in a situation of moral inferiority with respect to their adversaries, who often hold strategic positions in government, in politics, in the economy and in the media. In an apparently inexplicable way, the good are held hostage by the wicked and by those who help them either out of self-interest or fearfulness.

These two sides, which have a Biblical nature, follow the clear separation between the offspring of the Woman and the offspring of the Serpent. On the one hand there are those who, although they have a thousand defects and weaknesses, are motivated by the desire to do good, to be honest, to raise a family, to engage in work, to give prosperity to their homeland, to help the needy, and, in obedience to the Law of God, to merit the Kingdom of Heaven. On the other hand, there are those who serve themselves, who do not hold any moral principles, who want to demolish the family and the nation, exploit workers to make themselves unduly wealthy, foment internal divisions and wars, and accumulate power and money: for them the fallacious illusion of temporal well-being will one day – if they do not repent – yield to the terrible fate that awaits them, far from God, in eternal damnation.

In society, Mr. President, these two opposing realities co-exist as eternal enemies, just as God and Satan are eternal enemies. And it appears that the children of darkness – whom we may easily identify with the deep

Morality vs Pragmatism In Government

MORALITY SEES FARTHER THAN INTELLECT

Speaking now to our fellow-Americans only, let's put it this way: Doesn't it frighten you that, in any situation which arises today, your own government does not even bother to consider the right thing to do, but only the expedient thing? That it never has the occasion nor feels the necessity for saying to you: "This is the right and honorable course we are taking on your behalf?"

Your government proudly says, instead: "Look, here is the smart thing to do." This is true in its conduct of fiscal affairs, in its legislative program, and - - despite many honest and honorable individuals in government - - in every division of governmental activity and influence. And it is most dishonorably and disastrously true in the field of foreign affairs. The expedient course proposed may cost the lives or freedom of millions of our allies, who have risked those lives or that freedom in counting on our promises and our support. "But," your government says, "let's be realistic . This is the course which will make it most certain that we don't have to fight or worry too much ourselves for yet another year or two. And what do honor or morals have to do with statecraft?" Then everybody shouts: "Wonderful. Make those damn fools who are talking about what is right shut up before they annoy some other ally who also believes in expediency." And Mr. Walter Lippmann (substitute any number of notable political columnist or talk radio hosts of today. -ed), with his usual labored sophistry, proceeds to prove, to the relief of everybody, that the immoral course is really the most moral one after all. But honor and morals have everything to do with true statesmanship, Machiavelli to the contrary notwithstanding, as history has clearly shown. In another social organization remarkably similar to our own, Tacitus wrote: "Felicitate corrumpimur." We are corrupted by prosperity -- by good times. That corruption, which the prosperous Romans felt could not be dislodged lest their glorious prosperity be endangered, led to the destruction of the world's greatest nation by barbarians and to a thousand years of serfdom. And Lenin has prophesied with regard to the similar effects of prosperity on ourselves: "Never doubt the ultimate outcome because capitalism will commit suicide for an immediate profit." It is, basically, our willingness to allow, and temporarily to benefit from, a moral degradation on the part of our government that is almost beyond belief, which makes so great the danger of another barbarian conquest and new centuries of serfdom.

Going a step beyond Hegel, Professor Santayana pointed out that those who will learn nothing from history are condemned to repeat it. The thing we need most to learn from history, to save ourselves from the repetition of a horrible cycle, is the ultimate value of a sense of morals that applies to governments as well as to men. ★

EMERGENCY RATIONING

On July 22, 1942 gas rationing by the use of coupons began in the United States. The United States government cited the "War Effort" as an excuse to implement rationing of Gasoline.

Rationing did not begin with gasoline, however. The first item rationed was rubber in the form of tires. In fact, the gasoline rationing was justified by the idea that reduced travel would prolong tire life and add to the rubber rationing program. Tires were often patched or re-tread in lieu of new tires.

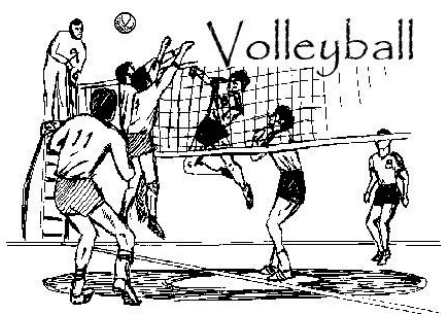

In order to carry out the rationing program, bureaucracy had to be established. The Office of Price Administration was established to evaluate needs, conduct conservation studies, record citizen data, create local rationing boards, produce coupon booklets, and produce propaganda for the American people's consumption. There was no shortage of propaganda.

Tires, gasoline and automobiles were not the only items rationed. Consumer goods and food were also rationed. Victory gardens were established in neighborhoods to supplement the food families were allowed to obtain.

Rationing involved setting limits on purchasing certain high-demand items. The government issued a number of "points" to each person, even babies, which had to be turned in along with money to purchase goods of these restricted items. In 1943 for example, a pound of bacon cost about 30 cents, but a shopper would also have to turn in seven ration points to buy the meat. These points came in the form of stamps that were distributed to citizens in books throughout the war. In conjunction with stamps, there were gasoline tokens with points printed on them and a person's automobile was issued a window tag (A,B,C,D or X) which determined how much fuel the vehicle could consume per week.

Whenever the OPA announced a new item would be rationed, there was a run on the market as people tried to stock up on the item. Shortages were the result. Inevitably, black markets were formed to pedal rationed items and even additional stamps.

Rationing made certain that every family felt the impact of World War II. Sugar, coffee, meat, fats, canned milk, canned fish, cheese, wheat products and more were all rationed. Restaurants established meatless menus and a national speed limit of 35 miles per hour was established. Perhaps most inconveniently, penicillin was rationed for civilian use and was administered by triage panels in each local hospital. ★

Money Ballerz (Captain Gabe Kalis)

MB: Joe Hazelrigg, Leo Godfrey, Zack Kotiadis, Gavin Nooney, and Mr. Herrygers
VS

The Original Brexit (Captain Alec Peik)

The Original Brexit started off with a staggering 14 to nil lead and it seem like the Money Ballerz we're going down to defeat. But evidently they were just getting warmed up because the Money Ballerz mounted a surprising 22-20 comeback win over the Original Brexit.

The Original Brexit (Captain Alec Peik)

Ballzz (Captain Gus Kalis)

The second game looked like a carbon copy of the first game as the original Brexit just dominated the first half of the game. Then Balin mounted a surprising come back. But alas, not strong enough, because the original Brexit held their lead and served out a 21 to 13 victory.

Money Ballerz (Gabe Kalis)

The Original Brexit (Captain Alex Peik)

The championship contest involved a rematch between the original Brexit and Money Ballerz. This game was back-and forth for most of the first half but the Money Ballerz won by a comfortable 21 to 13 margin. ★

First Night's Adventure

"On a Cliff-Hanger Without a Rope?" -Part 2

My first few steps into the pitch-black moonless New Hampshire night were daunting, but I was moving slowly, carefully. I had no idea that I was about to get a flying lesson!

When I made it to the tree ahead, I'd be at the edge of the lawn; an easy walk to --! The ground gave way -I was airborne, one foot touched spongy leafy earth for a moment but with no control to stop or right myself! Downward, again! I know I made a sound, but not sure what it was. It was not a scream or an expletive, rather some wordless expression of surprise as I landed, and realized that I was not really hurt. I had indeed stopped moving -- except for a sort of tremor in my leg muscles.

The last time I'd looked at my watch, it was

1:40 AM. No one knew where I was. I wasn't too sure where I was, except that it was part of the long slope extending from the driveway above the soccer field, gaga pit, and into these woods .

My head was well below my waist and I must have scraped my upper arm, right side. When I reached around to feel it, I had a sensation of sandy roughness, but no blood. I tried to roll in an effort to get up, and cried out softly at a brief but intense pain from my elbow .

Something had poked at the back of my head. I reach toward the offended area. Sand, twigs, and leaves. A bug bite. I scratched lightly and examined my fingers. Tiny bits of old leaf clung to my hand, as well as a squashed insect.

It would be ridiculous to call someone. They are all sleeping. Besides, what could anyone else do to help? What can I do? I have to get right-side-up! I moved my right foot. The toes seem to want to curl. I don't have time for that now. I really need to get on with my move. I need to be horizontal when I sleep. And I do need sleep!

How crazy is this? An old lady, almost eighty, spread out in the middle of the night on the side of a hill like a rag doll, and nobody knows it. Well, right! That is just as well!

Somehow, I gained traction and attempted to stand . I went down again . I kept tipping over as I encountered unstable footing everywhere

Finally, I put my hands forward and made my way up the slope on all fours, crawling . Talk about a second childhood!

I had no idea what I had lost. But when I looked into the starry sky to find the smaller, dimmer stars gone, and only a bright smudge that was surely a planet, I was no longer wearing glasses. I still had to move my stuff if I ever expected to sleep!

In the morning, I was touched by the staff offer to help search for my glasses, but declined, saying I wouldn't wish that slope on any grown up! I knew the lithe little Newman children could handle it, but I wanted to attempt it first, to learn precisely what had happened. Perhaps, I could find my glasses. Hah! What a dreamer.

As I approached the slope, my leg muscles resumed their protest. Wearing my prescription sunglasses, I was surprised at how easily I spotted a small slightly dislodged mossy rock along the top edge revealing the first loss of footing. And from that vantage point it was easy to see points of contact in stirred up leaves.

I scrambled down an easy way in the cleared area, detoured to a relatively level trail, and surveyed the area from below. Breakthrough: A fresh clean quarter suddenly caught my attention. I'd carried coins in my right skirt pocket: I was close! After gently pawing aside a few more leaves, I turned up another quarter and two of the 21st century, bright, light, copper-plated pennies, and last for this location, my half-size rose-colored ballpoint! I marked the spot with sticks and half a fern leaf. I continued my search having concluded that this little cache was from the second part of the fall.

A large disturbance of leaves was a couple of yards up the slope. With an old mossy stick as a cane, I worked my way up the slope. I scanned the area and turned up another coin, then a bunch more with very minor excavation. My glasses must be here somewhere! Ah, my flip phone! I hadn't even missed that yet! Dusted it off and opened it. Nothing. Okay, it's kaput. Things could be worse. Later, I turned it on, and sure enough it worked! I pawed through some more dirt, et voila --! My specs at last! ★

State which you wisely oppose and which is fiercely waging war against you in these days – have decided to show their cards, so to speak, by now revealing their plans. They seem to be so certain of already having everything under control that they have laid aside that circumspection that until now had at least partially concealed their true intentions. The investigations already under way will reveal the true responsibility of those who managed the Covid emergency not only in the area of health care but also in politics, the economy, and the media. We will probably find that in this colossal operation of social engineering there are people who have decided the fate of humanity, arrogating to themselves the right to act against the will of citizens and their representatives in the governments of nations.

We will also discover that the riots in these days were provoked by those who, seeing that the virus is inevitably fading and that the social alarm of the pandemic is waning, necessarily have had to provoke civil disturbances, because they would be followed by repression which, although legitimate, could be condemned as an unjustified aggression against the population. The same thing is also happening in Europe, in perfect synchrony. It is quite clear that the use of street protests is instrumental to the purposes of those who would like to see someone elected in the upcoming presidential elections who embodies the goals of the deep state and who expresses those goals faithfully and with conviction. It will not be surprising if, in a few months, we learn once again that hidden behind these acts of vandalism and violence there are those who hope to profit from the dissolution of the social order so as to build a world without freedom: Solve et Coagula, as the Masonic adage teaches.

Although it may seem disconcerting, the opposing alignments I have described are also found in religious circles. There are faithful Shepherds who care for the flock of Christ, but there are also mercenary infidels who seek to scatter the flock and hand the sheep over to be devoured by ravenous wolves. It is not surprising that these mercenaries are allies of the children of darkness and hate the children of light: just as there is a deep state, there is also a deep church that betrays its duties and forswears its proper commitments before God. Thus the Invisible Enemy, whom good rulers fight against in public affairs, is also fought against by good shepherds in the ecclesiastical sphere. It is a spiritual battle, which I spoke about in my recent Appeal which was published on May 8.

For the first time, the United States has in you a President who courageously defends the right to life, who is not ashamed to denounce the persecution of Christians throughout the world, who speaks of Jesus Christ and the right of citizens to freedom of worship. Your participation in the March for Life, and more recently your proclamation of the month of April as National Child Abuse Prevention Month, are actions that confirm which side you wish to fight on. And I dare to believe that both of us are on the same side in this battle, albeit with different weapons.

For this reason, I believe that the attack to which you were subjected after your visit to the National Shrine of Saint John Paul II is part of the orchestrated media narrative which seeks not to fight racism and bring social order, but to aggravate dispositions; not to bring justice, but to legitimize violence and crime; not to serve the truth, but to favor one political faction. And it is disconcerting that there are Bishops – such as those whom I recently denounced – who, by their words, prove that they are aligned on the opposing side. They are subservient to the deep state, to globalism, to aligned thought, to the New World Order which they invoke ever more frequently in the name of a universal brotherhood which has nothing Christian about it, but which evokes the Masonic ideals of those who want to dominate the world by driving God out of the courts, out of schools, out of families, and perhaps even out of churches.

The American people are mature and have now understood how much the mainstream media does not want to spread the truth but seeks to silence and distort it, spreading the lie that is useful for the purposes of their masters. However, it is important that the good – who are the majority – wake up from their sluggishness and do not accept being deceived by a minority of dishonest people with unavowable purposes. It is necessary that the good, the children of light, come together and make their voices heard. What more effective way is there to do this, Mr. President, than by prayer, asking the Lord to protect you, the United States, and all of humanity from this enormous attack of the Enemy? Before the power of prayer, the deceptions of the children of darkness will collapse, their plots will be revealed, their betrayal will be shown, their frightening power will end in nothing, brought to light and exposed for what it is: an infernal deception.

Mr. President, my prayer is constantly turned to the beloved American nation, where I had the privilege and honor of being sent by Pope Benedict XVI as Apostolic Nuncio. In this dramatic and decisive hour for all of humanity, I am praying for you and also for all those who are at your side in the government of the United States. I trust that the American people are united with me and you in prayer to Almighty God.

United against the Invisible Enemy of all humanity, I bless you and the First Lady, the beloved American nation, and all men and women of good will.

Last night's camp fire (which your truly attended) was kick started with a beautiful rendition of Amazing Grace. Then the Jr. Campers stole the show with their High Five First Amendment song. Evangeline Herrygers blessed us with another quote:

"Our Constitution was made on for a moral and religious people. It is wholly inadequate to the government of any other."

John Adams.

Sarah Krutov performed Down by the Bay. Jokes by Emily Shurtleff Sarah Krutov Maddie Daniels, Ben Soon and Mr. Hal Shurtleff kept the program light. Joshua Vileniskis knocked it out of the park with his violin rendition of Brave Heart. Several well performed skits were sprinkled in to the festivities. Evangeline blessed us with a scripture reading and The Herrygers family treated us to the Battle of New Orleans. We will not soon forget the staff performance of Ghost Chickens in the Sky.

Another excellent camp fire! It's hard to fathom the talent that surrounds the Camp Constitution pit on a nightly basis. ★
