The Olive Branch Petition of 1775

Entrance Exam

This year's entrance exam results were a step above the typical results. The grades were surprisingly better than normal. The following students topped the class:

100 pts	Madeleine Girard Devon Sharafanowich
95 pts	Sebastien Hazelrigg Sarah Moon Jacob Robbins
90 pts	Andrew Affleck Alex Peik
85 pts	Gabriella Gimenez Patty Kiernan
80 pts	Levi Caverly Lawrence Godfrey David Krutov Sarah Krutov Lucas Smith

Typically, campers score higher on the exit exam. The Camp Constitution staff is encouraged by the strong results coming into the camp and are looking forward to seeing the final results at the end of this week. Congratulations to all our campers and especially to those that earned a mention here!

Submissions Needed

Boy, oh boy, there was a whirlwind of events yesterday. It seems our campers were so busy with 4th of July festivities that no one bothered to submit newspaper content. Remember, participation counts towards the pizza party. As you sit around the cafe tables telling stories to your friends, don't forget that these are the very stories the Journal would like to print.

The Second Continental Congress convened in May 1775. As a body, they represented the interests of the thirteen colonies. John Dickinson of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, wanted reconciliation with King George III of Great Britain. The greater number of delegates were swayed toward his opinion. John Adams believed that war was inevitable and a small number of delegates were in his camp. Adams and his group of colleagues decided that it was not yet an opportune time to attempt to rally the people towards a separation.

Dickinson's pursuit of reconciliation inspired the idea of the Olive Branch Petition which was approved by the delegates. While Dickinson was the primary author of the petition, Benjamin Franklin, John Jay, John Rutledge and Thomas Johnson also served on the drafting committee. Dickinson claimed that the colonies did not want independence but that they merely wanted to negotiate trade and tax regulations with Great Britain. Dickinson asked that the King draw up a final plan or agreement to settle trade disputes. Dickinson suggested that the colonists be given either free trade and taxes equal to those levied on the people in Great Britain, or no taxes and strict trade regulations. July 5, 1775, the Olive Branch Petition was approved and signed. It was placed in the care of Richard Penn and Arthur Lee and sent to London on July 8. Surely, word of the bloodshed at Lexington and Concord combined with the "Humble Petition" would inspire the King to at least negotiate with the colonists.

In Great Britain, a confiscated letter penned by John Adams arrived in close proximity to the Olive Branch Petition. Its contents revealed that Adams felt that war was inevitable, that he was unsatisfied with the petition and that a Navy should have already been raised for the purpose of capturing British officials. Naturally, Parliament members opposed to the petition used the confiscated letter to place serious doubts on the sincerity behind the Olive Branch Petition. The petition was rejected out-right by the King as having been issued by an illegitimate body of rebels. The colonist received their answer when the King declared the North American Colonies in rebellion and ordered its suppression. ★

To the King's most excellent Majesty:

MOST GRACIOUS SOVEREIGN,

We, your Majesty's faithful subjects of the colonies new Hampshire, Massachusetts bay, Rhode island and Providence Plantations, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, the counties of New Castle, Kent, and Sussex, on Delaware, Maryland, Virginia, North Carolina, and South Carolina, in behalf of ourselves, and the inhabitants of these colonies, who have deputed us to represent them in general Congress, entreat your Majesty's gracious attention to this our humble petition. ## Agenda 21 Visioning Sessions

This past year, while I was attending my homeschool co-op in Pennsylvania I had a direct encounter with Agenda 21. They brought in a "sustainability expert," Dr. Neil Fogle, from Penn State. He talked about BANANAS, NIMBIs, and NIMBYs among any number of things but said that "he was just stating the facts, not his own opinions." He gave us a situation and put us into groups and told us to reach a consensus. I was the only one out of the whole class who didn't play along with the consensus idea and explained about Agenda 21/2030 and the Smart Agenda. I was able to quote Mr. Tom DeWeese and Mr. Shurtleff among many other speakers that I have heard at Camp Constitution.

Midway through what I was saying he interrupted me and was a half step away from sending me out of the room and refused to call on me again. This is what happens in real life to people who oppose Agenda 21. Using facts and skills that I've learned at Camp, I was able to remain calm and even though he silenced me, I knew I had planted a seed of doubt in everyone's minds. The next week at class they gave us a sheet to fill out. Here is what I wrote:

Question: List one way the program will help you to be a responsible citizen in your community.

Answer: I will show up to community planning meetings and voice my opinion. Community planning boards directly undermine our American republican form of government by appointing unelected officials called "volunteers" to make decisions.

Question: Make general comments on the program.

Answer: "Community Planning" is not important for the community. Zoning and the race track scenario directly undermine private property rights which are the cornerstone of our country. Some people might not like how a person's property is being used, but, taking away someone's rights is completely unlawful. The lecturer said he was just presenting the facts – not his own personal views – yet so much of what he said was opinionated. When he handed out the racetrack article and received my response, he was shocked and had a not-so-nice look on his face for a split second. Agenda 21's goal is to eliminate all sovereignty and property rights.

THE CASE OF THE MISSING FOOD

It all happened on Independence Day, July 4th. A senior camp counselor, knowing it was a very special, busy day decided to start her day out right with a nice healthy breakfast. As she sat down to eat, she noticed her coffee was a bit cold. In typical fashion, she got up to warm up her java, but while she was gone, her plate mysteriously grew legs, walked itself over to the trash, and discarded itself. When this counselor returned to her place she realized her food was gone! She was flabbergasted! With a scheduled staff meeting coming soon, she was unable to obtain a full meal. "I'll remedy this at lunch," she thought to herself.

As lunch arrived, she found herself busy aiding the junior campers and in her haste settled for a refreshing glass of lemonade. While pre-occupied with a matter of importance she returned to find her lemonade had found its way to the garbage too. She settled for two slices of watermelon at lunch.

Due to these unhappy events, she now has a representative of the FPA (Food Protection Agency) in her employ to keep an eye on her future nourishment should she be called away from the table. Prayers are requested on behalf of this lovely lady as she deals with these unfortunate trials.

HIGH FLYING FRISBEE DOGS

Independence Day, July 4th. A few furry visitors arrived here at Camp Constitution. Three dogs named Maui, Bullet, and Chaos, along with their owner Mr. Mike Piazza, put on a very entertaining and interactive show. A highlight moment in the show was when Mr. Piazza asked „What four counselors would you like to embarrass today?" The campers voted for: Mr. Kalis, Mr. Shurtleff, Mr. Adamo, and Miss Georgia. The counselors were challenged to spin around fifteen times and then throw the frisbee to Maui. They were then expected to spin around five times before each subsequent throw. The first counselor to get Maui to catch the frisbee won a $2000 Gold Metal (Dollar Store Special). Mr. Kalis, after about five tries, captured the coveted award. Afterwards, many others were chosen to lineup and toss the frisbee to the dogs (without spinning around). In the end, campers and counselors alike were invited to pet the dogs.

The union between our Mother country and these colonies, and the energy of mild and just government, produced benefits so remarkably important, and afforded such an assurance of their permanency and increase, that the wonder and envy of other Nations were excited, while they beheld Great Britain rising to a power the most extraordinary the world had ever known.

Her rivals, observing that there was no probability of this happy connexion being broken by civil dissensions, and apprehending its future effects, if left any longer undisturbed, resolved to prevent her receiving such continual and formidable accessions of wealth and strength, by checking the growth of these settlements from which they were to be derived.

In the prosecution of this attempt, events so unfavourable to the design took place, that every friend to the interests of Great Britain and these colonies, entertained pleasing and reasonable expectations of seeing an additional force and extension immediately given to the operations of the union hitherto experienced, by an enlargement of the dominions of the Crown, and the removal of ancient and warlike enemies to a greater distance.

At the conclusion, therefore, of the late war, the most glorious and advantageous that ever had been carried on by British arms, your loyal colonists having contributed to its success, by such repeated and strenuous exertions, as frequently procured them the distinguished approbation of your Majesty, of the late king, and of parliament, doubted not but that they should be permitted, with the rest of the empire, to share in the blessings of peace, and the emoluments of victory and conquest. While these recent and honorable acknowledgments of their merits remained on record in the journals and acts of that august legislature, the Parliament, undefaced by the imputation or even the suspicion of any offense, they were alarmed by a new system of statutes and regulations adopted for the administration of the colonies, that filled their minds with the most painful fears and jealousies; and, to their inexpressible astonishment, perceived the dangers of a foreign quarrel quickly succeeded by domestic dangers, in their judgment, of a more dreadful kind.

Nor were their anxieties alleviated by any tendency in this system to promote the welfare of the Mother country. For tho' its effects were more immediately felt by them, yet its influence appeared to be injurious to the commerce and prosperity of Great Britain.

We shall decline the ungrateful task of describing the irksome variety of artifices, practiced by many of your Majesty's Ministers, the delusive presences, fruitless terrors, and unavailing severities, that have, from time to time, been dealt out by them, in their attempts to execute this impolitic plan, or of tracing, thro' a series of years past, the progress of the unhappy differences between Great Britain and these colonies, which have flowed from this fatal source.

Your Majesty's Ministers, persevering in their measures, and proceeding to open hostilities for enforcing them, have compelled us to arm in our own defence, and have engaged us in a controversy so peculiarly abhorrent to the affections of your still faithful colonists, that when we consider whom we must oppose in this contest, and if it continues, what may be the consequences, our own particular misfortunes are accounted by us only as parts of our distress. Knowing to what violent resentments and incurable animosities, civil discords are apt to exasperate and inflame the contending parties, we think ourselves required by indispensable obligations to Almighty God, to your Majesty, to our fellow subjects, and to ourselves, immediately to use all the means in our power, not incompatible with our safety, for stopping the further effusion of blood, and for averting the impending calamities that threaten the British Empire.

Thus called upon to address your Majesty on affairs of such moment to America, and probably to all your dominions, we are earnestly desirous of performing this office, with the utmost deference for your Majesty; and we therefore pray, that your royal magnanimity and benevolence may make the most favourable construction of our expressions on so uncommon an occasion. Could represent in their full force, the sentiments that agitate the minds of us your dutiful subjects, we are persuaded your Majesty would ascribe any seeming deviation from reverence in our language, and even in our conduct, not to any reprehensible intention, but to the impossibility of reconciling the usual appearances of respect, with a just attention to our own preservation against those artful and cruel enemies, who abuse your royal confidence and authority, for the purpose of effecting our destruction.

Attached to your Majesty's person, family, and government, with all devotion that principle and affection can inspire, connected with Great Britain by the strongest ties that can unite societies, and deploring every event that tends in any degree to weaken them, we solemnly assure your Majesty, that we not only most ardently desire the former harmony between her and these colonies may be restored, but that a concord may be established between them upon so firm a basis as to perpetuate its blessings, uninterrupted by any future dissensions, to succeeding generations in both countries, and to transmit your Majesty's Name to posterity, adorned with that signal and lasting glory, that has attended the memory of those illustrious personages, whose virtues and abilities have extricated states from dangerous convulsions, and, by securing happiness to others, have erected the most noble and durable monuments to their own fame.

We beg leave further to assure your Majesty, that notwithstanding the sufferings of your loyal colonists, during the course of the present controversy, our breasts retain too tender a regard for the kingdom from which we derive our origin, to request such a reconciliation as might in any manner be inconsistent with her dignity or her welfare. These, related as we are to her, honor and duty, as well as inclination, induce us to support and advance; and the apprehensions that now oppress our hearts with unspeakable grief, being once removed, your Majesty will find your faithful subjects on this continent ready and willing at all times, as they ever have been, with their lives and fortunes, to assert and maintain the rights and interests of your Majesty, and of our Mother country.

We, therefore, beseech your Majesty, that your royal authority and influence may be graciously interposed to procure us relief from our afflicting fears and jealousies, occasioned by the system before mentioned, and to settle peace through every part of your dominions, with all humility submitting to your Majesty's wise consideration whether it may not be expedient for facilitating those important purposes, that your Majesty be pleased to direct some mode, by which the united applications of your faithful colonists to the throne, in pursuance of their common councils, may be improved into a happy and permanent reconciliation; and that, in the mean time, measures may be taken for preventing the further destruction of the lives of your Majesty's subjects; and that such statutes as more immediately distress any of your Majesty's colonies may be repealed.

For by such arrangements as your Majesty's wisdom can form, for collecting the united sense of your American people, we are convinced your Majesty would receive such satisfactory proofs of the disposition of the colonists towards their sovereign and parent state, that the wished for opportunity would soon be restored to them, of evincing the sincerity of their professions, by every testimony of devotion becoming the most dutiful subjects, and the most affectionate colonists.

That your Majesty may enjoy a long and prosperous reign, and that your descendants may govern your dominions with honor to themselves and happiness to their subjects, is our sincere and fervent prayer.

Revenge of the Slime

As 1pm struck three, very brave, Junior Campers made their way into their respective classroom. They were about to start their very special mission of smile making. At first the three wee ones, Nathaniel Shurtleff, Mrs. Shurtleff, Mrs. Rokicki, and myself, Campbell Egan struggled with the slime. It was everywhere, on tables, chairs, clothing, and it even made its way into someone's hair! After wrestling with it for a bit and trying different mixtures we finally got it right! Oddly enough, shaving cream was our secret ingredient! It made the slime fluffy while binding it together. We all had so much fun making slime, thanks for the fabulous activity Mrs. Shurtleff!

The Green Buzz Words

In today's world we eat, sleep, and breathe the UN's Agenda 21/2030. Even when someone doesn't notice it, it potentially effects every aspect of their lives. The United Nation's Agenda 21 has so many branches that it's hard to list them all. Some examples include, the depopulation agenda, dumbing-down of our educational system (Hello...Charlotte Iserbyte!), elimination of borders, corruption of our food supply, devil worship in pop culture, Illuminati symbolism (meant to infect us), and messing with nature through chemtrails and HAARP technology. If no one does anything to stop Agenda 21, it will consume us all. It is important to be able to recognize buzz words to identify Agenda 21. Some buzz words include: sustainability, citizen, global, smart meter, smart growth, smart consensus, stack and pack, green, smart tech, carbon footprint, public, public partnerships, environmental, common good, social, permafrost, great green hoax (aka Global Warning/Cooling/Climate change), Common Core, communitarianism, ICLEI, hegemon dialect, heritage sites, UN, BIS, IMF, earth-first buffer zones, forbidden zones, eco-friendly, earth-friendly, agreement, green jobs, green power, rights of the child, international, planning committee, action plan, social justice, and equality. — Campbell Egan

A Visit From King George III

The Junior Campers had a lot of fun today when King George III visited them while passing through the Colony of Pennsylvania. Campers learned what a tyrant he really was as everything they asked for he only and angrily answered, "No!" One humble colonist only asked for peanut butter and jelly sandwiches, occasionally. King George III angrily answered, "No!" to that request also. When asked why he was wearing shorts, the King was pleasant enough. He explained, "They are 16th Century Knicker-dockers."

The point of the exercise was to demonstrate the arbitrary rule of a monarch. The Junior campers now understand the importance of standing up for what you believe. — Mrs. Maura Shurtleff

CABIN ★ INSPECTIONS

Hebron A

As we predicted, some of our vertically superior instructors now have to duck (not quack quack quack) under your streamers. Not to be concerned, for if you tape them to the ceiling they would still be bumping into them. Not much clearance there. We tried your bow ties on our shoes, but we kept tripping over the dangly ends. Unless you take miniscule, little steps, it just doesn't work!

Score: 8.37

Hebron B

As in another cabin which shall remain nameless, our inspectors which have a natural ability to reach out and place a basketball in a hoop got close-lined by your signage. Holy smokes! How many pairs of shoes does one guy need. You must be Buster Brown's most prized customer. Bad news, a bunch of your balloons fell to the floor. That's either a minus on the decoration score or a minus on the tidiness score? Have you any preference?

Score: 7.75

Bethel 4

In case you didn't realize it, your spherical lanterns can also double as a concertina (small accordion with no keys). We danced and sang songs until we noticed the sign, "Let them eat cake." So we all ran over there only to find that your stinking dog ate all our cake! Bummer! False advertising! There oughta be a law!

Bethel ?

Paul Revere needs to call Alpine Environmental to get some period renovation; so happens, we know a guy. Are you expecting us to remember your room number? No matter, we'll just credit Bethel 4, they could use the extra points. Did you know that Psalm 119 is the longest chapter in the Bible? You do now! Balloons in a bathtub? Who washes new balloons? That's taking germaphobia to an all new level. Perhaps you prepared a bubble bath for us?

Score: 8.500

Bethel 10

Let us apologize. Our inspectors are technology-challenged. We seemed to have erased the first 15 seconds of the song. Triangle button, square button, we had a 50-50 chance. What we heard was great though. We're more accustomed to hearing a "Mr. Ed" voice from a horse rather than a chipmunk voice. I suppose a horse by any other name is just a horse. Were you actually expecting brownie-points when you named your horse Brownie?

Unfortunately, your cabin inspectors are suffering from "TWS", Twinkie Withdrawal Syndrome. That light, fluffy, airy, cream filled spongy mysterious confection. Yummm! Mold or no mold, we want more of those speckled delights.

Score: 9.125

The scores are tight and we are approaching the half-way point of the contest. Newspaper participation is going to make a huge difference. Currently, none of the cabins are taking advantage of the opportunity.

Are you missing your copy of Camp Constitution Journal? Back Issues are available outside the Newsroom.

The 4th of July Campfire! Some of the boys from Hebron B sang the Peanut Butter Song. Their performance inspired "Tricorn" Tom Moor to lead the camp through some harmony lessons. Every little bit counts! Our campfires will be better because of it. Keep an ear out for some sweet four-part harmonies! Mr. Moor then launched into our camp favorite "Preamble Song". It wouldn't be camp without it! Mr. Richard Howell, dressed authentically as a Colonial Major General, read the entire Declaration of Independence – what a fitting end to our 4th of July Campfire! After the fire, Mr. Peik, Stephen Peik, Mr. Kalis and Mr. Renaud painted the sky with a fantastic fireworks display on the beach. The amount of explosives, flares, and rockets red glare was astonishing! Next year our challenge is to synchronize the display with Tchaikovsky's 1812 Overture. ★
