

The Roth contribution option: A new way to save for retirement

Greenville University is introducing a Roth contribution option in the Greenville University Retirement Plan beginning January 1, 2018. It's yet another option you can use to save for your financial future.

What is a Roth contribution option?

In the Greenville University Retirement Plan, your pretax contributions have the potential to accumulate tax deferred, and withdrawals are taxable.<sup>1</sup> With the Roth option, your after-tax contributions have the potential to accumulate tax free. Withdrawals after age 59½ are tax free if distribution is no earlier than five years after contributions were first made. These tax benefits are similar to a Roth IRA. Additionally, Roth contributions allow higher contribution limits than a Roth IRA.

Many consider a Roth if they:	Features of the Roth:
Are not eligible to make Roth IRA contributions because of high income	The Roth option does not have adjusted gross income (AGI) limits.
Would like to make Roth contributions greater than the Roth IRA limit	In 2018, the contribution limit for a 403(b) account ($18,500) is higher than the limit for a Roth IRA ($5,500), letting you increase your after-tax retirement savings.
Feel confident their retirement income needs are met and want to leave a potential tax-free legacy	Assets may be passed along to your beneficiaries income tax free.
Would like to help protect retirement assets from potential tax consequences	Having both pretax and after-tax assets in retirement accounts may provide a hedge against the uncertainty of future tax rates.
Are just starting out and in a lower tax bracket	The earlier you start, the more time you give your money to work for you. And withdrawals from a Roth are typically tax free.*

* Withdrawals of earnings prior to age 59½ are subject to ordinary income tax and a 10% penalty may apply. Earnings can be distributed tax free if distribution is no earlier than five years after contributions were first made and you meet at least one of the following conditions: age 59½ or older or permanently disabled. Beneficiaries may receive a distribution in the event of your death. For governmental 457(b) plans, withdrawals are only allowed following separation from service or when you reach age 70½.

Is the Greenville University Retirement Plan Roth contribution option right for you?

While it's difficult to predict what your future tax situation may be, you'll want to estimate as best as you can, taking into consideration the best choice for your current tax circumstances and how they may change over time. You may want to consult your tax advisor.

Many who expect their tax rate during retirement will be: May opt for:

Higher than their current rate	After-tax Roth contribution option. Since they have already paid taxes on the contributions, withdrawals are tax free.
Lower than the current rate	Pretax contribution option. While this money is taxable, they expect to benefit by being in a lower tax bracket during retirement.
Same as their current rate	Either or both.
