What do I need in order to sign up for Australia Broadband on the nbn™?

To sign up for Australia Broadband on the nbn™, your home must be nbn-ready. When you sign up, if your home has previously been connected to the nbn™ network, we'll organize with the NBN Co Ltd (NBN Co) for the existing nbn™ connection to be reconnected or transferred to us.

If it is the first time your home is connecting to the nbn™ network, we'll organize with NBN Co for an NBN Co technician to install the nbn™ equipment if it's not already installed. The NBN Co technician may need physical access to your premises or communications infrastructure if you live in an apartment. A person over the age of 18 must be present during the NBN Co appointment. If you're renting, you'll need to get approval from the owner for the installation.

Do I need an nbn™ compatible modem?

Yes, you'll need an nbn™ compatible modem to connect to the nbn™. If you bring your own, we can only offer limited support for BYO modem configuration. We recommend you purchase an nbn™ compatible Wi-Fi modem with pre-configured settings (plug and play) from us. Once purchased, this modem is non-refundable, other than in accordance with your rights under the Australian Consumer Law.

What happens if I cancel my order before it is activated?

If you cancel your order before activation of your service and your order is in progress with the NBN Co, you'll be charged 1 months' plan fee. An order is deemed to be "in progress" once you have received an order number from us and your payment has been processed.

How fast is my nbn™ service?

FTTN & FTTP speeds are subject to the quality of the copper line and can only be confirmed once your nbn™ service is activated. Actual speeds may vary due to many factors including type/source of content being downloaded, hardware and software configuration, the number of users simultaneously using the network and performance of interconnecting infrastructure not operated by Australia Broadband. Devices connected by Wi-Fi may experience slower speeds than those connected by Ethernet cable. Learn more about nbn™ speeds at: www.australiabroadband.net.au/internet-speeds/

What are the limitations of my nbn™ service?

Australia Broadband does not support any equipment or wiring at your premises beyond the network boundary point. We do not provide a backup battery for premises serviced by FTTP and connected to an NTD. Medical devices or alarms will only work if compatible. We bear no responsibility for any devices, equipment or services at your premises that may be impacted by the nbn™. Such devices, equipment or services (including phone or VoIP services) may not work in the event of a power outage as Australia Broadband does not supply a backup battery. Australia Broadband does not offer priority assistance.

What is your consumer compensation policy?

Consumers are entitled to any compensation applicable in relation to service faults or outages that last more than 1 day where the fault lies with the nbn™ up to the network boundary point. By signing up to a subscription, you accept we do not offer any compensation from any business losses you incur due to a fault on your nbn™ service.

We do not provide compensation for interim services such as mobile data charges. Learn more about consumer compensation at:

<http://www.australiabroadband.net.au/help/kb/compensation-policy/>

Do I need to pay any NBN Co connection charges?

Australia Broadband does not charge any activation or setup fees and standard nbn™ installations are completed at no cost to you. Non-standard, additional or subsequent installations may require you to pay additional charges. If any additional NBN Co installation charges apply, we'll let you know how much (normally $300) and get your permission before you're charged.

Do I need to pay for the New Development Charge?

If your home is connecting to the nbn™ for the first time and it is located within the boundary of a new development area (as identified by the NBN Co), you'll be charged an NBN Co New Development Charge of $300. If the New Development Charge applies, we'll get your permission before you're charged.
