

Declaration of the company's beneficial owners

In accordance with European anti-money laundering and counter terrorist financing regulation, Electronic Money Institutions are required to satisfy certain identity verification requirements. One of these requirements is to formally verify the identity of their client's beneficial owners.

Any natural person who owns or controls part or all the share capital of the company, or any legal person for whom a transaction is carried out or an activity conducted will be considered a "beneficial owner".

The following will be considered a "beneficial owner" of a company:

- Direct owner of at least 25% of the company's capital: ownership of at least 25 per cent (25%) by any natural person will be treated as direct ownership.
- Indirect owner of at least 25% of the company's capital: ownership of at least 25 per cent (25%) by a holding company owned by one or several natural persons will be treated as indirect ownership.
- Other means of ownership; such as a company listed on a regulated market that is subject to disclosure requirements consistent with EU legislation or subject to equivalent international standards which guarantee suitable transparency of information relating to ownership.
- In the absence of a direct or indirect holding of the company and after having exhausted all possible means of investigation without finding any grounds for suspicion, the main director will be considered the beneficial owner.

Declaring the beneficial owners is complementary to the company's articles of association, which do not necessarily disclose the shareholding, or simply mention the holding companies. The declaration is, therefore, useful to obtain up-to-date information.
